FARMER and COMPANY.

THE SPRING SEASON.

In all our departments the assistants are now actively engaged in exhibiting, or preparing for exhibition, the plethora of novelties selected by our European buyers. Ladies throng our Linen counters, making selections from our matchless stock of Table-linen, Fish Napkins, Table Napkins, Damask Cloths, &c. Summer Quilts are coming into notice, and the heavier winter blankets are being set aside for these really excellent productions of our Tasmanian cousins, white as the driven snow, pure as they are white, rivalling in finish the choicest products of the French and German looms. Printed Cottons are attracting attention, and the Foulards at 4½d, the Cambrics at the same price, and the French Satteens at 6½d are being eagerly purchased by appreciative buyers. The fancy departments are to the fore with a list of novelties past description. And the newly-decorated showrooms, the throng of well-dressed ladies, the charming array of costumes, the exquisite blending of colours, and the subdued hum of many voices, form a toute ensemble as attractive as it is unique. Nothing in Sydney, nothing indeed in Australia, approaches it. Every visitor to Sydney should see our showrooms at this season.

FARMER and CO.

FRENCH MILLINERY.

Some very pretty Bonnets are now ready for inspection in our Millinery Showrooms. Charmingly fresh Spring colourings, unique designs, true to the reigning æstheticism. Just a sprinkling of Parisian novelties as well, altogether an attractive combination. Buyers should come early this week for first choice.

FARMER and COMPANY.

MANTLES AND JACKETS.

The new Summer Visite, price 30s, in fine French cashmere, nicely lined throughout with silk, and chastely and appropriately trimmed with beads and passementerie. This mantle is most fashionable, and a really becoming shape for any figure, combining a distinctive grace and elegance seldom equalled. Other more simple as well as more elaborate styles, in good materials, at prices varying from 22s 6d to 5 guineas. Also, Cashmere Jackets, 12s 6d to 42s; all-beaded Fichus, 7s 6d; Chenille net and beaded Fichus, 12s 6d to 42s; elegant Satin de Lyon Mantles, lined silk, in extra rich qualities, 52s 6d to 10 guineas. FARMER and CO.

LADIES' UNDERCLOTHING.

Fresh shipment of FACTORY-MADE underclothing for Spring and Summer wear. The success attaching to this new effort is most gratifying, as it enables us to guarantee a further saving to our patrons of at least 15 per cent. This is really due to the many direct and collateral advantages pertaining to our prompt cash system. Ladies' Chemises beautifully made from Horrockses' longcloth, plain, 15s the half-dozen; frilled, 17s 6d. Ladies' light Dresses from 33s the half-dozen. Ladies' Plain Tucked Drawers from 10s 6d per half-dozen. Ladies' High-necked Camisoles, 22s 6d the half-dozen. Baby Linen, Emb. Cashmere Wrappers and Children's Costumes just unpacking. We show a nice School Costume, from 8s 6d.

FARMER and CO.

LADIES' STAYS AND CORSETS,

chiefly of Parisian manufacture, in various shapes, combining every excellence required in these most important articles of dress. Special attention is directed to the Montrose Corset, or Figure Regulator, manufactured in fine coutil, and eminently adapted for ladies' wear during the coming summer months. It is hand-made, perfect in shape, braces the figure just where it is needed, and has the effect of producing, even in indifferent figures, that graceful contour which is the distinguishing feature of the present style of dress. Other corsets, in most excellent shapes, from 5s 6d to 25s.

FARMER and CO.

HOSIERY.

We are showing an unequalled assortment of really nice goods in Ladies' and Children's Hose for Spring and Summer. We don't run about for our Hosiery, preferring to stick to the manufactures of G. Brettle and Co., who rank facile princeps among British makers. We know we have to pay somewhat higher for their goods, but there are finish and shape with them not found with any others, and they do not make qualities that can only be described as "cheap and nasty." Purchasers of their Hosiery may always depend on getting a smoothly-fitting well-finished stocking, even in their lowest quality. Their prices, too, quality considered, are not extravagant, as the following quotations indicate:—Ladies' Balbriggan Hose, emb. silk, 10s 6d to 22s 6d per dozen, and in choice colours 12s 6d to 33s; Ladies' Derby Ribbed Cotton Hose, excellent goods, 12s to 22s 6d per dozen; extra super fashioned Balbriggan Hose, in Children's and Ladies', from 14s to 45s per dozen; and some very fine samples of Lisle Thread Hose, 27s to 36s per dozen. FARMER and CO.

so much sought after at present, of exquisite fineness and delicacy, in their natural undyed colour, as well as in the prevailing shades, such as Old Gold, Peacock, &c. These muslins were first introduced to European purchasers in the Indian Court of the Paris Exhibition, under the poetic names of Abrawan, or "Running Water;" Bafthowa, or "Woven Air;" Shubanam, or "Evening Dew"—names which convey, more than whole pages of description, a correct idea of their surpassing fineness and beauty of texture. In various widths, from 1s 6d to 3s 6d per yard. Prompt cash only.

FARMER'S.

TAPESTRY CARPETS.

We have just 1000 pieces of John Crossley and Son's Tapestry Carpets that we bought from that well-known firm a few pence per yard under their cost price. The parcel consists of styles that will not be repeated, and which, Messrs. Crossley, determining to clear, offered to our Mr. Farmer. We are selling these Carpets rapidly at 2s 6d per yard prompt net cash; making and laying 3d per yard extra. The quality is the same as we have sold at 3s 6d per yard. The designs are not the newest, but still such as please a large circle of buyers; and when the quality is considered, with the fact that they are just 1s per yard lower than they can be purchased for elsewhere, many persons will at least have a look at them.

FARMER and CO.

PRINTS, CAMBRICS, SATTEENS.

We hasten to announce our early shipments of Printed Cotton Goods for the ensuing season. The magnificent assortment we have to offer, the really artistic colourings and designs, the quality of the various cloths printed upon, and the prices we are enabled to quote will doubtless secure for us a large share of N. S. Wales print trade this coming summer. We commence our Printed Foulards at 4½d, at which price we have 100 new designs. We follow on at 5½d, 120 new designs; 6½d 80 new designs; 7½d, 76 new designs. Our Cambrics start at 4½d, 60 new designs; then 5½d, 75 new designs; 6½d, 100 new designs; 7½d, 90 new designs. Satteens start at 7½d, then 8½d, 9½d, 11d, and 1s, and comprise 250 of the choicest designs and colourings we have ever seen. Our total stock to hand and to arrive exceeds 12,000 pieces. It is patent that a stock of this magnitude affords the greatest possible advantages to purchasers. There are 30,000 sets of patterns ready. Prices are for prompt cash.

FARMER and CO.

THIRTY THOUSAND.

Yes, thirty thousand sets of patterns are ready for distribution, representing our present stock of Printed Foulards, Cambrics, Satteens, and Mourning Prints. The prices range from 4½d to 1s per yard, and we guarantee a saving to all cash buyers, who may favour us with orders, of three halfpence per yard on the lower prices up to threepence per yard on the highest price we quote, as compared with ANYTHING THAT CAN BE PURCHASED ELSEWHERE. Our immense output, our enormous purchasing power, our prompt cash dealings, our direct intercourse with the largest manufacturers (who do not care for small transactions, and will not execute orders for other Australian retail houses), enable us to give this guarantee without hesitation.

FARMER and COMPANY.

OMBRE STRIPES, 8½d.

"Did you say 8½d! Why I bought similar material in Oxford-street, London, only last May at 1s. It was very much worn." Such was the remark of a lady who saw our new Ombre Stripes this morning. As the name indicates, the stripes are shaded, and are somewhat of a return to the fashionable fabrics of old time notoriety. Neutral tints prevail, the colours varying in sober shades of grey, drab, slate, light brown, &c. So rapid was their sale in the early part of the London season, that immense orders were placed by the West End house to which they were engaged; orders, indeed, that eventually exceeded the sale by some 500 pieces. These 500 pieces were offered to our Mr. Farmer at the actual cost to the maker, and purchased by him. We are thus enabled to quote them at 8½d, the net wholesale price for prompt cash. Patterns are ready, and as the town sale is certain to be very rapid, customers in the country who desire to participate in the advantages the parcel presents, should make immediate application.

FARMER and COMPANY.

OTHER NEW DRESS FABRICS.

The Satin Marie, 6½d, all shades. The new Ecarté Cloth, 8½d. The fashionable Beiges, in Spring tints, 10½d. The French Carmelites, 12d. The Indian Cashmeres, 1s 9d. These and other novelties will be exhibited in our Dress Department to-day, and during the week.

FARMER'S.

PILLOW-CASES.

One hundred clerks are employed daily in sorting and defacing the returned notes in the Bank of England. They are stored for five years, and then destroyed. The last batch when destroyed, though closely packed, extended for seven miles, and if placed edge to edge would have covered 16,000 miles or thereabouts. When we commenced to open this extraordinary parcel of pillow-cases we thought of the returned notes of the Bank of England. We asked ourselves how many miles would they cover. The quantity staggered us—dozens upon dozens, scores upon scores, hundreds upon hundreds, thousands upon thousands. A manufacturer's bankrupt stock, (a manufacturer, who made pillow-cases his specialty,) gave our London buyer the opportunity. Do come and see them. They are ready for use, mostly with embroidered initial letters, and some handsome monograms; and the prices range from 2s to 9s 6d per pair. The greatest bargains we ever submitted. Prompt cash only.

"GOOD AMERICANS, WHEN THEY DIE, GO TO PARIS."

We don't know much about disembodied spirits, and so cannot say whether the statement in the above quotation can be relied on. If we were to venture an opinion, we would say that if good Americans wanted to enjoy themselves, at any time, they could hardly go to a better place than the French capital. We know, however, that all Americans who can afford to see Paris generally do so in the flesh, and go excellently well equipped in the matter of baggage. And it is this said baggage with which we now have to do. It is our business to equip travellers, and it is our interest to find out the best description of equipments. Well, we unhesitatingly give the Americans the palm in the matter of these travelling requisites. Their productions in Travelling Trunks, Boxes, Cases, Bags, Straps, &c., are just as much beyond those of other nations as their own Niagara is past an ordinary waterfall. There are more conveniences in a Saratoga trunk than in any other trunk on earth. We sell them from 25s upwards. Then their stateroom trunk is exactly what they call it, and invaluable for stateroom, cabin, or berth. Their ordinary packing trunk, price from 7s 6d upwards, is well made, iron bound, and strong enough to defy ill usage. As for their fitted bags and cases, they are simply past description. And, as in all these items we are now making an unparalleled show. Intending travellers should inspect our showrooms.

FARMER and CO.

READY-MADE SUITS, 30s.

Every Englishman knows something of Bliss's tweeds; that is every Englishman to whom Chipping Norton is not a terra incognita. He has tested their durability across country maybe, or knows a friend who has. He has worn them in almost every clime, has felt their comfort in knickerbockers while climbing some Alpine fastness, or in a pair of bags, or suit of classic reach-me-downs, when riding hard, working hard, or lounging most luxuriantly under an Indian or Australian sun. He knows them to be free from shoddy in this much-shoddied age, and is ready to swear by them, as he is by his horses, his dogs, his guns, or by ought else in which he thoroughly believes. To Englishmen, therefore, it will be a most welcome announcement that Farmer and Company commence the spring season with 2000 Bliss's Tweed Suits, well cut, well made, and thoroughly shrunk, at 30s per unit, prompt net cash. And, indeed, Messrs. Farmer see no earthly reason why this announcement should not interest equally Irishmen, Scotchmen, Australians, or any other men with any ready money.

PHYSIOGNOMICAL CHARTS.—To-day and daily Dr. Simms will be at the comfortable private ante-room of the Temperance Hall, in order to supply the public with his large Physiognomical Charts, 240 pp., accurately marked to indicate the Intellectual, Social, and Moral traits of applicants, their state of health, the occupations for which nature has adapted them, and the character of person they should choose for a life companion. Thousands of men and women in Great Britain and America are, to-day, reaping the benefits of a consultation with Dr. Simms. To follow his professional advice, communicated orally, and by means of his Charts, is to pursue the path of virtue, happiness, and worldly success.

The liberal support accorded this establishment by the PUBLIC of SYDNEY has encouraged the MANAGEMENT to make certain alterations and improvements in the AUDITORIUM, and in the Ventilation of the Building, which have been found necessary to fully ensure the convenience and comfort of the HABITUES of this HIGH-CLASS FAMILY RESORT.
The GAIETY THEATRE will therefore be CLOSED for a period of THREE or FOUR WEEKS, and due NOTICE will be given of the RE-OPENING with an ATTRACTION of a SUPERIOR CLASS, such as has hitherto proved the success of the Theatre since its opening in December, 1880.

THE ROYAL FURNISHING ARCADE.
IT IS TWELVE MONTHS TO-DAY since the late proprietor,
Mr. W. B. CAMPBELL
retired from active business pursuits
in our favour.
During this time we have used every endeavour to preserve the reputation, popularity, and kindly feeling won for the establishment by him.
WITH WHAT RESULT!
IT HAS BEEN A YEAR OF MARKED SUCCESS, and we trust,
through the same strict attention at all times and in all matters connected with our business, to merit a continuance of the support so liberally accorded us since our accession to the proprietorship.
We have from to time during the year called attention to our magnificent, spacious, and well-stocked Showrooms. If we have apparently done this too often, pardon us; for if we may judge by casual remarks made by visitors, by what we have been told in course of conversation with new arrivals from the sister and neighbouring colonies, and by the exclamations of astonishment and delight from those who have judged the interior by the exterior, we might reasonably come to the conclusion that our showrooms stand unrivalled in magnitude and beauty.
It has been thought that our display might sometimes be the means of discouraging parties of limited means from furnishing with us; this we trust has never been the case. Our stock comprises furniture and general Household Requisites to suit EVERY class of purchaser. In fact it is our great aim to study economists and bring within the reach of every one household comforts at the lowest net cash prices.
ESPECIALLY AT THIS SEASON
can we recommend a visit.

NEW SPRING SUITINGS AND COATINGS.
A rare choice is offered to our customers this spring. Our new woollens are beautifully selected, and the range of styles embraces every kind that can be asked for.

Scarborough Suiting	Bliss's Regulation Serge
Corkscrew Twist Coating	Bliss's Staff Serge
Sergerette Suiting	Bliss's Fancy Serge
Oxford Twist Trousering	Cheviot Serge
Brown and Palmer's Trouserings	Kilmarnock Suitings
Bliss's West of England Tweed	Bedford Cord Trouserings.

Some specially well-made faced and worsted Diagonal Suitings or Coatings in invisible blue, can be either worn for black or blue, and the colour is imperishable, from which we are taking orders at 42s for sac coats, and 58s 6d for paget or walking coats, or £4 4s the suit. Send for patterns, prices, and illustrations of styles of these goods, and ask for samples of the "Ascot Diagonal," the trade term by which they are distinguished.
THOMPSON and GILES,
Tailors, Habit Makers, &c.,
Denison House,
George-street, Sydney.

BLACK CLOTH is useless unless it is good, therefore tradesmen who do not wish to loose their good name, first get a really reliable make of Black Cloth, and then stick to it. This has been our practice. We have three qualities of Broad Cloth, made by the same manufacturers, to special order. Send for Patterns and Self-measurement Plan; also Illustration of Styles. Black Frock Coat, to order, 67s 6d and 75s; Vest, 15s; Black Trousers, 27s 6d.
THOMPSON and GILES,
Denison House,
Sydney.

SOME excellent things are to be found among the NEW WOOLLENS for this season, special attention having been given to the Three Guinea Suitings. Some are smooth finish, West of England Tweeds, some rough Scotch Cheviot Cloths, others neat, durable, small patterns—all the same price, so that any taste may be met and pleased. Send for patterns, material, and illustrations of styles, with a most accurate system of self-measure, which will be supplied by return of post. THOMPSON and GILES, Denison House.

THE SCARBOROUGH SUITING is not a Tweed, nor is it a coating, but a new material produced this season and fit for best wear, without being loud or vulgar in pattern. It looks fashionable, and is sure to wear well. Price for suit, Sac shape (to order), 70s 6d, or Walking 75s. Send for patterns, styles, and self-measurements.
THOMPSON and GILES.

FOR OUR THREE-GUINEA SAC SUITS, to order, we have secured a splendid range of Tweeds. The quality will excite surprise at once, and the weight and texture are the very thing—not too heavy, not too light. Neat new fashionable mixtures and patterns. A very complete range forwarded with a clear system of self-measurement, and also illustrations showing shapes, by return post.
THOMPSON and GILES,
Denison House, Sydney.

A MACINTOSH OVERCOAT that is perfectly rain-proof and yet not too heavy is much to be desired. Not one of those expensive flimsy kind that will not bear the slightest strain, but a neat tweed macintosh, well cut, and suitable for summer wear. We have recently opened such a shipment of Macintosh Coats with a patented ventilation at back. Also cut to different shapes to fit different figures. Leggings made of same material to match. For clerical wear, some very good black macintosh coats well ventilated.
THOMPSON and GILES,
Denison House, Sydney.

THE reason why we are so successful with, and have so large a sale for boys' and youths' ready-made clothing, is that we keep three qualities—1st cheap, 2nd medium, and 3rd best. The second and third we make up on the premises. The first, or cheap quality, we import from England, where the clothing is made up to our special order, but at far lower rate than we could possibly attain.
Our Ready-made Suits to fit boys of 10 or 12 years old, in tweed of the proper make and pattern, cost 21s and 22s 6d, and about 1s each more for larger sizes.
The Boys' Ready-made Suits that we make up ourselves are cut from Bliss' tweeds—in itself a guarantee of good wear—and also from the most appropriate patterns of the best English and Scotch tweed manufacturers. The price of a ready-made suit in this kind, size to fit a boy of 12, is 32s 6d to 35s.

OUR READY-MADE SUITS for BOYS' best wear, made of invisible blue diagonal and neat fancy coatings, are a pleasure to sell; they fit, as a rule, remarkably well, great care being expended upon their making up. The price of these suits is from 39s 6d to 45s.
THOMPSON and GILES,
Outfitters, &c., Denison House, George-street, Sydney.

NEW SHAPES in BOYS', YOUTHS', and MEN'S HATS, ex Liguria, to open on the 7th September. Our new shapes are of a superior finish and quality, and possess several improvements in finish and general style, so that a rapid sale is anticipated.
THOMPSON and GILES, Sydney.

The Nemesis (s.), which arrived yesterday from Melbourne, brings a large cargo. Since she was here last she has been fitted with Higginson's "steam quartermaster," a new patent steam steering apparatus, hitherto quite unknown in these waters. Mr. T. J. Parker, one of the owners, sent out the gear, and so successful is it pronounced to be that the owners purpose fitting their next large steel steamer (2200 tons) with a similar patent. The Nemesis cleared Port Phillip Heads on September 9, at 1.15 p.m., and arrived in Sydney on the 12th, at 2 a.m. Experienced light variable winds and fine weather to Cape Howe; from thence southerly winds and continual rain. The barques Conference, Pleiades, Frederica, and the clipper barque Olivia Davis were passed 40 miles N.E. of Wilson's Promontory at 8.30 a.m. on the 10th.

The barque Sydney Griffiths, for Melbourne, put to sea yesterday afternoon, but owing to a heavy southerly gale she ran back to port.

The Thessalus, from London, has been berthed at the Central Wharf.

The Beagle (s.) crossed the Manning bar on 11th instant, at 8.15 a.m., and entered Sydney Heads on the 12th, at 6.15 a.m. Had light northerly winds and heavy rain to Seal Rocks, thence to Sydney light to fresh southerly winds and smooth sea. Cargo: 750 bags maize, 10,050 laths, 250 pieces cedar, 50 cases eggs, 15 coops fowls, 60 pigs, 40 hides, and sundries.

The Queen of the South (s.), from the Macleay River, crossed the bar at 9.15 a.m. on the 11th instant, and arrived at Sydney at 3 p.m. on the 12th. Experienced moderate northerly winds to Seal Rocks; strong southerly winds and squally weather the remainder. Cargo: 1411 bags maize, 21 pigs, 3 coops pigs, 14 coops fowls, 29 cases eggs, 100 hides, and sundries.

The Rosedale (s.), from the Macleay River, crossed the bar at 10.30 a.m. on the 11th instant, and arrived at Sydney Heads at 2.30 p.m. on the 12th. Experienced fresh N.E. winds and rain to Seal Rocks; thence strong S.S.W. winds to arrival. Cargo: 1810 bags maize, 24 pigs.

The telegram from London respecting the Garloch, referred to in our Melbourne telegram yesterday, was received at the head office of the Pacific Insurance Company, Sydney, and was to the following effect:—"Fire out; chief injury lower hold; water pumped in; otherwise not very serious; discharging."

The Marie, Danish brigantine, 143 tons, built at Grenaa in 1875, was submitted for sale by public auction in Hobart on the 2nd instant, by direction of the Admiralty Court, and was purchased by a Sydney firm for £1625.

The Pacific, barque, from New York to Adelaide, had a narrow escape from running on to Kangaroo Island on the 3rd instant, the rocks ahead being seen only just in time to enable her to haul off. It appears that the chronometers were astray to the extent of 60 miles.

Notice is given by the Adelaide Marine Board that the temporary red light exhibited from the north end of the Beachport Jetty will, on and after the night of the 1st September, 1881, be replaced by a fixed red light, to be shown from the south end of the jetty. The light will be 10 feet above ordinary high water mark, and in clear weather will be visible from a ship's deck at a distance of from 4½ to 5 miles. Vessels bound to Beachport during the night, after passing Penguin Island at half or quarter of a mile distant, should not haul up for the jetty until the red light bears N.W. by N., magnetic.

Messrs. Melhado and Curtis report the yield from the Band and Albion Consols G. M. Co. last week to be 769oz., from 1000 tons crushed.

The week has opened without much animation in the Import markets, the business transpiring being chiefly of a trade character. In breadstuffs, holders of flour seldom expect to do much on a Monday, and to-day they found no exception to their general experience. A very light trade demand for flour is all that can be reported; best Adelaide flour is selling at £14, and the leading brands of New South Wales are not obtainable under £13 10s. Dried fruits are unchanged in value; sales of currants in cases were made at 5½d. In fish, sardines have hardened, under the influence of home advices, 8s. 9d. was paid to-day for halves; salmon is selling at from 7s. 4½d. to 7s. 6d. The salt market continues very dull; five to ten lots out of store are selling at 77s. 6d. to 80s. In oilmen's stores we hear of little doing. Lea and Perrins' sauce had sale at 11s. 6d. In liquors the business has been mainly of a trade-order character. Pig stout was quitted at 9s. 9d. Rum is unchanged in value; red star had attention at 3s. 10½d. Whisky still selling freely in all the leading brands; a line of Connemara was sold at 4s. 9d. In metals there is nothing fresh to note; were it not for the fact that stocks are good in most lines prices could hardly do otherwise than advance, in the face of the rise in the English market and the improvement in freights. The heavy shipments, however, have produced the natural result, and parcels cannot be forced off except at a reduction in most lines. In I. C. Coke tinplates business is reported at 18s. 6d.; and for I. C. Charcoal, 24s has been paid. Galvanized iron and fencing wire are unchanged. For blasting powder there was some inquiry, and a line of Hall's changed hands at a quotation withheld. In drugs, caustic soda, 76 per cent., was placed at £20, and in tartaric acid business was done at 2s., the market having a firmer tone. The supply of forage at the Darling Harbour sales this morning and the attendance of buyers were very moderate; the prices realized were, for oaten hay, in bales, from 4s. 5d. to 5s. 6d; in bundles, from 4s. 1d. to 5s. 6d.; in truss, from 4s. to 4s. 7d; oaten sheaves, 4s. 3d.; lucerne hay, in truss, 3s. 4d.; straw, in bales, from 2s. 4d. to 2s. 6d., in bundles, from 2s. 3d. to 2s. 5d.; oaten chaff, in bales, from 4s. 6d. to 5s. 1d.; turnips, 2s. 3d.; potatoes, 3s. 8d. On the wharfs business is still dull. Prime new green lucerne is quoted at £3 to £3 5s.; inferior, from £2 to £2 10s.; prime old hay, from £2 12s. 6d. to £2 15s. In Sussex-street the quotations are—butter, best quality, 1s. 3d. per lb., in good demand; cheese, 6d. to 9d. per lb.; eggs, 7d. to 8d. per dozen; oats, feed, 2s. 9d. to 3s.; oats, seed, 3s. to 3s. 8d.; maize is firm at 3s. 8d. per bushel; bacon, 4d. to 6d. per lb.; onions, £15 per ton; Cape barley, 2s. 6d. to 2s. 9d.; English barley, 2s. 3d. to 2s. 6d. per bushel; fowls, 3s. 3d. to 3s. 9d.; ducks, 4s. 6d. to 5s.; geese, 6s. 6d. to 7s. 6d.; turkey cocks, 9s. to 14s.; turkey hens, 6s. to 8s.; lard, 4½d. to 5½d.; bush honey, 3½d. to 4½d.; garden honey, 5d. to 6d. per lb.; millet brooms, 8s. to 9s. 9d. per dozen.

Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin submitted at auction, to-day, a catalogue of 178 bales of wool, principally fellmongered parcels. Prices were about equal to those ruling last week, notwithstanding freights are higher. The chief lots sold were:—H. M'Namara, scoured from 14½d. to 18¼d.; RT&T over Dubbo, at 16½d. Good lots of sheepskins maintained late prices, but the medium and lower qualities ruled about a halfpenny per lb. easier. 86 lots were sold, the bulk at from 6d. to 6¼d. for best, 5d. to 5½d. for pelts, and from 2½d. to 4½d. for short-woolled.

Messrs. Brunker and Wolfe report that at their fortnightly sale of wool and sheepskins, held to-day, there was a good attendance of buyers. Competition, however, was dull, and values obtained a fortnight since were with difficulty maintained. Fleece, washed, realized 16d. to 21d. for first quality, and 11¾d. to 15¾d. for seconds; greasy to 9½d. per lb.; best sheepskins, dry, 6d. to 6¼d.; butchers', 5½d. to 6¼d. for green, and 4d. to 5½d. for medium.

Messrs. J. Lazarus and Co. report having to-day sold a catalogue of leather at auction and privately at the following prices:—Sole, 9d. to 8½d., ditto (damaged), 6½d. to 7d.; harness, 13d. to 14½d.; bridle, 10s. 9d. to 11s.; kip, 15d. to 15½d.; tweed, 18d. to 24d.; bag, 9s. 9d. to 11s.; strap, 10s. 9d. to 11s. 3d.; kangaroo, 18½d. to 48d.; basils, 9s. to 10s.; cordovan, 18d. to 20d.; calf, 23d. to 26d.; yearling, 14½d. to 18d.

At the Homebush fat stock sales to-day, 1090 head of cattle were yarded. The market was very firm, having advanced 10s. to 15s. per head. The best lot of bullocks averaged £7 14s. 9d.; a second lot, £7 12s. 10d.; others from £5 11s. 3d; cows at proportions rates, equivalent to from 15s. to 22s. per 100lb. of beef. 6920 sheep were penned. Prices were well maintained. The ranges of value were from 6s. 6d. to 12s. 11d. to 13s. 5d.—the average of the primest lot of wethers forward.

The importance of the colonial trade to Great Britain is forcibly illustrated by a comparison of the Imports and Exports returns for the past and some previous years. This trade is year by year forming an increasing proportion of the whole of the trade of the empire. For instance, in 1871, out of total exports of British produce to the value of £223,066,000, the colonies took 51½ millions worth, or 23 per cent.; while in 1880, when the total export of British produce was £223,060,100, about the same as in 1871, the colonies took goods to the value of £75,254,000, or nearly 33⅓ per cent. of the total.

The Customs duties received to-day were as follows:—Spirits, £3036 7s. 2d.; wine (still), £290 7s. 2d; ditto (sparkling), £205 1s. 7d.; ale, porter, and beer (in wood), £17 10s.; tobacco and snuff, £43 8s.; cigars, £181 1s. 3d.; tea, £220 1s. 3d.; coffee and chicory, £76; sugar, refined, £3 7s.; ditto, unrefined, £25; molasses, £19 9s. 8d; opium, 10s.; rice, £203 12s. 5d.; dried fruits, £132 19s. 2d.; nuts, £12 6s. 10d.; malt, £67 7s. 9d; specific duty, £1651 5s. 5d.; fisheries royalty, £7 8s. 6d.; pilotage, £58 10s. 4d.; harbour and light dues, £46 1s. 4d.; total, £6297 13s. 10d.

Messrs. Macdermott Brothers and Scarr report having sold, on account of Messrs. Brumley and Coulstock, the Lochnagar Station, Mitchell district, Queensland, with 600 head of cattle and 15 horses, for £3000—Messrs. Wallace and Little purchasers; also, on account of Mr. J. C. Cochran, Geelong, Victoria, the pure shorthorn bull Roan Baron, price 60 guineas—Mr. M. W. Cunningham purchaser.

HOMEBUSH FAT STOCK SALES.

Messrs. Brunker and Wolfe report 7000 sheep penned, and prices very much firmer. 1088 cattle forward, the majority being from good to prime. We topped the market with a draft of bullocks (121 head), the property of Messrs. Pearse and Clark, from Collymongle by road, best pens selling up to £8 19s., the lot averaging £7 14s. 9d. per head.—[ADVT.]

The Sydney Morning Herald.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1881.

In moving the second reading of the Licensing Bill, Sir HENRY PARKES defended the principle of enforcing local option by means of a substantial majority rather than a bare majority, on the ground that the decisions of bare majorities would not give satisfaction. "Supposing a license were granted by 1001 against 999, that certainly would never give satisfaction, nor would it give satisfaction if the license were refused in the same majority." We fully admit the force of this objection, but if the PREMIER attaches so much weight to it, why does he not allow it a larger effect? A majority of eleven-twentieths is not a substantial majority. For practical purposes, and as a means of obviating dissatisfaction, the distinction between it and the bare majority is a distinction without a substantial difference. In a constituency of 2000, for instance, the determination would rest with 1100 against 900; and it would be, as a matter of fact, as undesirable to have 900 dissatisfied persons as 999. The argument is sound, however, although the application of it in this case is weak, and it has never yet been effectively answered when used to point out the unsatisfactory character of our present so-called representative system. If 1001 electors vote for the candidate of their choice, and 999 vote for the candidate of their choice, there are 999 people whose votes are thrown away, and who are left to be misrepresented by a man whom they have not chosen, and whom, perhaps, they hold in abhorrence. Sir HENRY PARKES has always disparaged what he and others of his school have termed "fancy franchises," and visionary schemes of representation; and he seems to have felt instinctively that this admission of the injustice of election by bare majorities might be quoted against him. Accordingly he anticipated such a use of his words by saying, "It might be urged that in an election to that House, a majority of one often decided the election; but that was not a case in point, for in electing a person to that House, they elected him to exercise all the qualities of his mind upon an endless variety of subjects, and therefore any disappointment felt at first might be balanced by satisfaction at his conduct on some subject or other; but here it was proposed to take an election on one proposal, which could not be varied in any way, and if a house were opened or refused by a bare majority, instead of allaying dissatisfaction, it was sure to increase and embitter the dissatisfaction." It is hard to see how this reasoning strengthens the case against bare majorities in local option or weakens the case against the present system of so-called representation. The hon. member could scarcely have foreseen the conclusions to which this line of argument, fairly followed out, must lead. One of these is that it is more important to provide equitably for the settlement of this small question of public-houses or no public-houses than to place the election of members of the Legislature upon a true and just representative basis. He admits that in the latter case the 999 may be disappointed at first; but he is content to trust to chance for their obtaining some degree of satisfaction afterwards. In the case of local option his demand is that this large amount of disappointment and dissatisfaction shall be provided against at the beginning. If it can in the one case, why not in both? To face the disappointment calmly in the case of a Parliamentary election, and refrain from making an effort to obviate it on the ground that the representative against whom the 999 voted may turn out better than they thought is certainly to place the theory of Parliamentary elections on a lower platform than that which is said to be due to local option. What if the member elected against the votes of the 999 should prove as unsatisfactory as they expected him to be? Until the next election they will simply have, like people defeated by a bare majority under local option, to swallow their disappointment. But there is another conclusion to be considered. A member of Parliament is supposed to be elected "to exercise all the qualities of his mind upon an endless variety of subjects." To do this to the advantage of the country he should have a mind well stored with varied information, and be capable of applying it. Suppose 999 electors desire to return such a man, but 1001 are hot for the election of a candidate who loudly shouts the cry of the hour—local option, for instance—but is comparatively unfit to deal wisely with the endless variety of subjects that are considered in Parliament. The 999 will not only be disappointed as to the settlement of that particular question to which the cry refers, but will be doomed to suffer renewed disappointment every time the man who was thrust in against their will exposes his general disqualification, and brings discredit upon the Legislature. This argument about the endless variety of questions upon which a member's mind will be exercised tells strongly against election by bare majorities under the present system, not for it. The wider the range of work which a member has to perform, the greater is the danger of a system which specially favours the return of men who designedly or otherwise adopt the most popular view upon some question that for the time is engrossing public attention. At such times and under such circumstances other considerations, though permanently of greater weight, are apt to be overlooked. There is no system better adapted than that of bare majorities and popular cries to promote the return of men who are incompetent to deal wisely and well with the varied questions which must arise after the cries of the elections have sunk into silence. Sir HENRY PARKES recognises the evil of the bare majority system in local option, because, as he says, it determines against the wish of a large minority one particular proposal, which cannot afterwards be varied in any way. But it is the same at a Parliamentary election, when the question is the return of a good man or a bad man; a capable man or an incapable; a trustworthy or an untrustworthy. Answer these questions by the decisive vote of the majority, and the minority may have ever afterwards to complain of the election of a man who is bad and incapable, and whom they do not and cannot trust. And whatever the member so elected may do upon this subject or that, they will still deny, and rightly, that he is their representative.

As we remarked on Saturday, the state of the local money market is such as to furnish every inducement to the Government to raise a moderate amount of money by a fresh issue of local funded stock. In fact, the local money market has never been so favourable for such an operation. The TREASURER is in full possession of authority to act at his discretion in this matter, the last Loan Bill having been wisely framed, so as to leave it at his option either to sell debentures or to issue stock in England or in the colony.

The first attempt at creating a local national debt was a failure, because the then Treasurer wanted to get from the local market a price that the value of money did not then justify. Four per cents. were not then worth par, and it was in vain to ask for it. The consequence was that most of the stock taken was simply an investment of Government funds, and the public had hardly any of it. No subsequent Treasurer has cared to repeat the experiment, because no one liked to ask less than a predecessor had done. But the case is different now. The funded stock is salable at par, the banks have more money than they know how to lend wisely, and they are discouraging deposits by offering the unprecedentedly low rate of 3 per cent. per annum. The opportunity, therefore, is singularly advantageous for enlarging the area of the local funded debt, and of adding it to the financial conveniences of the colony. Of course money will not always be as cheap as it is now, but local consols will always be a financial advantage to our money market.

One great convenience attaching to borrowing in the colony is that the TREASURER can get just as much as he wants exactly when he wants it. When a large loan is placed on the London money market it is generally a little in excess of what is immediately wanted, and the balance remains on hand for a time, and can only be invested at a lower rate of interest than is given for it. But funded stock can be issued exactly in the quantities necessary to meet the TREASURER's requirements to pay contractors. He can ask local capitalists from month to month for just as much as is necessary to cover his bills, and by making his appeal to the local market in this way for small sums he can always feel his ground step by step, and hold his hand if there is the slightest chance of, in any way, deranging our commercial finances. There is not, indeed, very much risk of this, seeing that other colonial Governments have come into our markets and borrowed freely without doing us any harm. But, of course, it is possible that a Treasurer might suck up local capital to an inconvenient extent if he asked for large sums when money was scarce. There is no appreciable danger of that at present; and by negotiating small loans at frequent intervals the TREASURER can feel the pulse of the market with great accuracy. We have always the English market to fall back upon if the colonial one cannot supply our wants; but there is no reason why we should go to the other side of the world to get what is abundant at our very doors. As we have often pointed out, it would pay us to give a somewhat higher interest for colonial than for English loans, because in the case of the former we escape all charges for remittance, brokerage, interest, replacement, and stationery. The whole transaction costs the Government nothing, except a little bookkeeping, which would give to colonial trustees a valuable and much-needed form of investment. The COLONIAL TREASURER will probably take these considerations into account, and when he next wants money will give colonial lenders a fair chance. They have at least as much claim to consideration as manufacturers, especially as they ask for no bounty.

The last quarterly report of the mechanical engineer at Botany gives us the figures as to the present condition of the city water supply. Notwithstanding all alarm, the citizens have not yet been put upon short allowance, and a continuous supply has been maintained. But we are now approaching the commencement of another summer, and we naturally look to see how we stand in the prospect of a summer's demand. It is nearly two years since any water ran to waste over the weir, and that is a longer period, we believe, than has ever before been recorded. When the water runs over the weir it is a sign that the sand is fully charged, and that we have as much water in stock as the reservoir will hold, and this has generally been the case after very heavy rains. Last year we took a great deal more out of the storage than went into it, and indeed we squeezed the sponge pretty dry by driving adits into the hills, and getting the water out more quickly than if left to percolate naturally. The rains we have since had have met current requirements, but they have not fetched up arrears. To re-saturate the whole of the sand-basin will require, according to the engineer, not only an average year's rainfall, which up to the present time we have not had, but one equal to the heaviest on record, which would be 50 per cent. more than an average. Even this would scarcely make the sand and the reservoirs all full up. We have to face the summer, therefore, with only a moderate supply of water on hand, and a larger number of houses to be supplied than ever before. It is essential, under such circumstances, that we should exercise due caution and economy. The practice of using salt-water for the streets has been a perceptible relief to the demand on the engines at Botany, and up to the present time we have not been made aware that any injurious results have followed this plan. Some doubts on the subject were entertained by medical as well as practical men. The combination of sewage and salt-water is so generally considered offensive that putting salt-water on to dirty streets would, it was thought, make a perceptible increase in the unpleasant effluvium of the city. But there have been no complaints on this score—at least during the winter months; and if on sanitary grounds there is no objection to the use of salt-water, we shall certainly have to continue it until the new water supply is available. When that will be is still uncertain; but the sooner the better.

In connection with this subject we may note that the authorities in Victoria seem to have definitely ascertained that the bad taste and smell of the Yan Yean water last summer was due to the comparative stagnancy of the reservoir and the growth and decay of minute vegetable organisms. The cure is said to lie in having a constant stream of fresh water passing through the reservoir. We may, therefore, have to deal with the same difficulty at Prospect.

The deputation to Mr. LACKEY, on Friday, respecting the proposed Homebush to Waratah railway, put the case submitted in a strong light. On the 31st of March last, when the Loan Bill was before the House, authorizing debentures for a "Homebush to Waratah double line, £2,000,000," Mr. H. C. DANGAR made a final attempt to have the points of junction left open until plans and books of reference were ready. In reply to him, the PREMIER said, "I have already given every assurance it was possible to give that no step will be taken which will hamper the House in reconsidering the matter of the Northern line. Supposing it to be the case that the letter of the provisions of this Act must be carried out, the same power which makes the Act can easily modify it, if it should be deemed necessary to have either point of junction with the line elsewhere than is proposed." The deputation, therefore, was not too late, and Mr. LACKEY could do no less than promise to lay its representations before the Cabinet. The gist of the East Maitland case was put in Mr. BRUNKER's summary of figures, which showed that the bulk of the Northern population reside north of Maitland; the land is there, the live stock, the agriculture, the forests, and the tin mines. But the line to Waratah is the shortest and cheapest, and easiest connection with the Northern line. It will probably have to be made in any case, as there does not appear to be any shorter route to Newcastle. It may be fairly argued in its behalf, therefore, that if made it will not be rendered useless by a shorter cut to Maitland being made afterwards, while it will give the much-needed connection at the smallest charge on the public purse. If a connection could be formed still further north than East Maitland, as Mr. BURNS suggested, without involving too much expense, that would be better still. The officers of the Department, however, report against that, but they leave a choice between two or three other routes which ought to be fairly examined. To keep this break between the North and the rest of the colony open any longer than necessary is undesirable; and if reopening the question would cause much delay, the blunder already made might be the less evil of the two. But there need be no delay, for the Estimates for the session have scarcely yet been prepared, the financial policy of the Government remains unenunciated, and the plans and book of reference could be modified in time for legislative approval this session, should the balance of evidence turn out in favour of East Maitland.

The advices as to the last two cargoes of frozen meat have not been quite so satisfactory as was the case with the earlier shipments. The meat by the Protos was not found in a perfect state of preservation, while that by the Cuzco found a flat market, and was not considered to be of tip-top quality. Fluctuations we must expect, but so long as the price does not fall below a remunerative standard they will not arrest the trade. There seems to be some difference of opinion as to whether meat should be frozen immediately after being killed. The late Mr. MORT was, we believe, of opinion that it could not be frozen too quickly. This is a point, however, which a few experiments would soon settle. Twenty-four different carcases killed at the same place, and of as nearly as possible the same quality, might be put into the cold chamber at different intervals after killing, from one hour up to twenty-four hours. A careful examination of them at the end of the voyage would show whether there was any difference in the degree of their preservation. Quick chilling, however, can only be done where the meat is frozen on shore. If it is sent on board the ship to be chilled, there is always some risk of deterioration taking place before the preservative influence of cold has begun to take effect. It is also desirable, in view of the fact that cargoes may arrive when the markets are temporarily flat, that there should be a cold room in London, to which the meat may be transferred. This would be a reasonable protection to sellers against being forced to sell immediately.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

As the troubles in the East draw to a close those in North Africa increase. The insurrection in Egypt is unchecked, and Cheriff Pasha, who was asked by the Khedive to form a new Ministry, appears unwilling to trust himself in such a post of honour at a time when the army and people are in a state of insubordination. A European occupation of the Khedive's dominions has been spoken of in various capitals, but neither France nor England approve of such a step, and those two Powers are acting in unison, with a view to the adoption of measures to end the crisis. In Tunis affairs do not improve much. Whilst the French have gained possession, unopposed, of the important town of Susa, the revolutionary Arabs have seized a town further inland, where they are pretty sure to commit excesses and defy the authority alike of their sovereign and the French. It is, under the circumstances, scarcely to be wondered at that the French should have made the Bey an offer of troops to enable him to subdue his rebellious subjects.

FOUR fresh cases of smallpox—one of the patients being Miss Wailes, of Woollahra, sister to the young lady who died of the disease last week—were reported yesterday. Particulars are given in another part of the Herald.

SOME further correspondence respecting vaccination was laid on the table of the Legislative Assembly on Friday last. The first letter, dated June 16, is from Dr. Alleyne to the Under-Secretary for Finance and Trade, recommending that instructions be given to the medical officers of all Government establishments to vaccinate the inmates and officers of such institutions; and that no one, whether a pupil teacher or other person, who comes from a dwelling in which there is a case of eruptive sickness, should be allowed to enter a school. In consequence of the above, letters were addressed by the Principal Under-Secretary to the Inspector General of the Insane, and to the manager of the Government Asylums for the Infirm and Destitute, directing that the recommendation of Dr. Alleyne should be carried out forthwith. Mr. King thereupon issued instructions to the medical officers of the various asylums to vaccinate the officers and inmates. On June 24 Mr. King wrote to the Principal Under-Secretary, stating that a large proportion of the inmates of the Hyde Park Asylum refused to be vaccinated, and that he did not propose taking further steps in the matter. With regard to the insane, Dr. F. N. Manning, the Inspector-General of the Insane, writes on the 9th September to say that he had issued copies of the instructions to all the medical superintendents under him. At Newcastle and Gladesville the vaccination was conducted with judgment and care, but at the hospitals at Parramatta and Callen Park it had not been completed, owing to the difficulty of obtaining lymph. At Gladesville there was a large proportion of unsuccessful vaccinations, which Dr. Manning attributes to the fact that a large number of the patients were vaccinated in 1872.

IN the Supreme Court, yesterday, the verdict recovered by the plaintiff in the case of Wakeford v. the Commissioner for Railways was reduced to a nominal amount. In McCrea v. Roper, a case on the Lands Acts, a new trial was granted.

IT will be seen by the report of yesterday's proceedings in the Central Police Court that several persons have been fined for having in their possession ropes, or portions of rope, the property of the railway authorities. Persons should be cautious of whom they purchase goods or articles offered by strangers, however plausible their story, or however cheap the articles. The defendants are not suspected of having become dishonestly possessed of the ropes, or they would doubtless have been prosecuted for larceny.

A TRIAL of a new safety blasting powder, introduced and manufactured by Messrs. Chittenden and Terry, took place at Mr. Saunders' quarry, Pyrmont, yesterday afternoon, the shot being put in and fired by Mr. Saunders, jun. 12lb. of this composition inserted in a 3-inch drill hole 4 feet in depth, shifted over 150 tons of solid rock (fired with the ordinary fuse.) The great advantage claimed for this powder is its perfect safety and cheapness; its action resembling dynamite, having a great downward tendency. It leaves no poisonous or injurious fumes. A quantity of this powder placed on a stone by Mr. Saunders was with difficulty lit with a match, and burned slowly away. The proprietors have formed a company, styled the "Excelsior Safety Blasting Powder Manufacturing Company," and are negotiating for suitable premises at Waterloo. Another public trial will be held at the same quarry on Tuesday, the 20th instant, at 12 o'clock.

A PARADE of No. 1 Regiment New South Wales Volunteer Infantry was held at the Victoria Barracks on Saturday afternoon. Lieutenant-Colonel Raymond was in command. The men were first inspected by the commanding officer, and then put through company drill by officers commanding companies. The adjutant then exercised the regiment in extended formation, and the parade was brought to a termination by Colonel Raymond marching them past. The evolutions were executed very creditably.

THE annual session of the Baptist Union commenced on September 6, in the Harris-street church, but subsequently an adjournment took place to the Bathurst-street church. The Rev. R. F. Becher was elected chairman, and a committee was chosen for the year. At the public meeting of the Union, the Rev. D. Fenwick read the annual report, and the Rev. R. F. Becher delivered an address on "The need of power in our Churches," both of which may be found in another column.

AT a meeting of the congregation of the Presbyterian Church, Liverpool-road, Ashfield, held in the church on Thursday evening last, it was determined, in view of the limited accommodation of the present building, and the increasing population of Ashfield, to take the necessary steps for adding to the area of the present site, and for the erection of a new church. The congregation authorized the purchase of 10 feet additional frontage to the east of the present site from Mr. John Pope for the sum of £100, and 40 feet to the west, going back 550 feet to Norton-street, from Mr. Dongan, for £700. The congregation also passed a vote of thanks to Mr. Pope for a gift of land at the back of the church. A building committee was appointed, and authority given for the ultimate erection of a manse.

THE foundation-stone of a new Presbyterian Church at Lismore was laid yesterday afternoon by Mr. J. Paxton, J.P., in the presence of a large number of people, including Sydney visitors, amongst whom were Mr. A. Kethel. Mr. Paxton was presented with a handsome silver trowel and mallet. Over £80 was placed on the stone. A tea meeting was held at the Protestant Hall in the evening. Spirited addresses were delivered by clergymen and others present. The weather is fine and warm.

THE bazaar in aid of the Parramatta Hospital closed on Saturday. It realized £815, and proved to have been the most successful event of the kind held in the district.

NOTABLE improvements have been made in what is known as "the Flagstaff Reserve," and what is really a splendid piece of land surrounding the Observatory, a fine flight of steps having been constructed as an approach from Kent-street, and two allotments of land (originally sold, but subsequently resumed, by the Government) having been added to the area of the reserve. The additional land is being enclosed with a continuation of the dwarf wall and iron railing which partially surround the reserve, and it will shortly be planted with ornamental trees and flowers. The corner of the reserve at the junction of Argyle-place and Kent-street, which was so long an unsightly quarry, has been enclosed with a fence, while the ground has been levelled and planted, and consequently much improved in appearance. On the reserve generally additional seats and a drinking fountain have been erected for the convenience of the public, and the shade trees are becoming sufficiently widespread to furnish a pleasant retreat from the sun. It is hoped, too, that Mr. Charles Moore, one of the trustees of the place, will use his endeavours to introduce open flower-beds, which it will be remembered he approved of for Hyde Park, and which have been introduced with most pleasing results into several public parks in England.

THE National Agricultural Association of Queensland has issued a prize schedule of an Intercolonial Wool Show, to be held in Brisbane during the first week of January. In a circular, issued with the prize schedule, it is explained that hitherto the wool shows held in connection with the society's annual exhibitions in August have proved almost complete failures in consequence of being held immediately before shearing. The schedule embraces both merino and coarse wools, washed in the grease. The former is classified into three groups or descriptions, namely, clothing, fine combing, and heavy combing. The number of fleeces in each exhibit is fixed at six, and prizes are offered for rams', ram hoggets', ewes', and ewe hoggets' of each description. Entries are also invited for clothing and combing wool, washed and in grease, in bales. Champion gold medals are offered for the best six rams' and ewes' fleeces, of Queensland growth, and a grand championship—gold medals—for the best and most valuable six rams' and six ewes' fleeces open to all the colonies. One of the reasons assigned by the promoters for holding the show is that Queensland is being rapidly stocked-up with sheep, and as she is largely dependent on other colonies for stud sheep, and entirely so at the present time at least for store sheep, the woolshow will afford intending purchasers an excellent opportunity of deciding, by comparison, from which flocks they will draw their supplies. In a purely commercial sense, therefore, our principal wool-growers will see that it will be to their interest to become exhibitors. Setting aside the commercial view of the question, it is worthy of consideration that our northern neighbours have, for many years, contributed liberally to the attractiveness of our Sydney Exhibitions, and, according to the rules of courtesy, our wool-growers should respond liberally to the invitation of the Brisbane society.

CONCERNING street vulgarity, the following occurs in the "Table Talk" of yesterday's Echo:—"An old proverb many years ago used to inform us that 'want of decency is want of sense.' Judging according to this principle, a great many persons who walk about our streets are utterly devoid of sense, for their language is wholly wanting in decency; in fact, the very air is tainted with their stupid profanity. And this kind of foul language seems to be very much, if not entirely, the offspring of habit; for, apart from its disgusting coarseness, it is inexpressive; it conveys no meaning; there is not even the merit of ingeniousness in it; it is an indication of mental barrenness. The repertory of these imbecile blasphemers is limited, and it is undescriptive. Now and then one hears of American oaths which, bating their irreverence, are not unamusing. And some time since there died an operatic manager who was in his lifetime wont to use strange oaths, but always with a singular aptness. You might be shocked at his disregard of the colloquial proprieties, but you could not help being amused at the pertinence of the wicked terms he employed. But the bad language of our streets is foolishly undescriptive. It interlards conversation, without embellishing it. It shows the weak resource of unthinking minds. The persons who indulge in it neither read, nor think, nor carefully observe. They cannot claim even the humour of profanity; they are only dull. They use filthy terms out of sheer barrenness of thought. Their seeming delight is to call everything 'bloody.' If they reflected for a moment, they would be compelled to admit that this word is for the most part singularly unsuitable. For they use it for good and evil alike. Their likes and dislikes are conveyed variously by means of this comprehensive adjective. Their opinions are propounded through this medium. They seem to look at all creation through a gory interposition. The truth is, however, that they have lost all proper consciousness of the exact significance of the word. To the mind guided by etymological indications, it conveys an unpleasant impression. The persons who indulge in it do not think of its meaning, even if they ever at any time fully comprehended it. For all that, it has a very nasty sound to the decently educated ear; so that, if the average street wayfarer who sandwiches his conversation with this sort of verbal grossness, could be induced to adopt a less sanguinary tone, we should have reason for congratulation. There is, in short, no need for so much blood in conversation. The desired effect could be had without blood. The moral aspect of the question may be left out of consideration. The real point to be determined is, is it necessary? And the reply is that it is not necessary, either for emphasis, humour, or embellishment. For the English language is so rich in descriptive terms that it is an unwise waste of good material to disregard what is truly descriptive in favour of what is coarse and certainly the opposite of expressive. Consequently, those who set up to be social reformers might profitably apply themselves to the abolition of this particular bad language now referred to. For, although we may become familiar with the sound, we can never cease to hate the grossness, the coarseness, and the unpleasant suggestiveness of the habit."

MR. ARTHUR HERMAN HENRY MILFORD FEEZ, B.A., of the Sydney University, was admitted a member of the Queensland Bar, on the motion of the Attorney-General, at Brisbane, on the 6th instant. This is the third grandson of the late Mr. Justice Milford who has during the year been admitted a member of the legal profession. One was admitted as an attorney, and Mr. Feez and his cousin as barristers.

ON Sunday night, shortly after a train had left the Burwood railway platform, a large stone came crashing through a window of one of the carriages, and very nearly struck one of two gentlemen within. The act appears to have been one of wanton mischief—one of the fruits of that growing spirit of larrikinism which is becoming so rampant—and it is to be hoped that the culprit will be soon discovered and punished.

A YOUNG man named Thomas Shallow, of Campbelltown, while at work in No. 7 tunnel at the Waterworks yesterday, in consequence of the breaking of a rope, fell and fractured his leg. A man named Joseph Jamieson, of Surry Hills, fell from a vehicle and fractured his collar-bone; and a youth named William Bullmore, of Botany-street, fell from a lift in an establishment in George-street, and fractured his leg. The three sufferers received attention at the Infirmary.

ABOUT 10 o'clock on Sunday night a man named Adolph Peterser a seaman of the American vessel Chestina Redmond, whilst going aboard, fell into the water at Alger's Wharf and was drowned. Petersen was 32 years of age, and a native of Finland.

AT the inquest held yesterday, at the Star Hotel, George-street, Redfern, with reference to the death of Mrs. Mary Louisa Bignell, it was shown that, despite orders which had been given by Dr. Dansey, her husband neglected to supply her with proper nourishment, but frequently supplied her with quantities of brandy, and that her death was the result. A verdict of manslaughter was returned against William Bignell, husband of the deceased.

THE following is a report of the Sydney Infirmary for the week ended 10th September, 1881:—Admitted, 27 males, 19 females; discharged, 22 males, 19 females; died, 5 males, 5 females; remaining, 126 males, 60 females.

AN adjourned meeting of the Sydney Municipal Council will be held this morning, at 11 o'clock.

DR. SYMES, the physiognomist, continues his course of lectures this evening. The subject will be, "Hands, hair, handwriting."

NEWCASTLE, MONDAY.

A miner, named Duggan, has been seriously burnt by explosion of fire-damp at Minmi Colliery. Another child has been drowned at Adamstown, through falling into a tank. The Borehole miners held an important meeting on Saturday night, when the report of the deputation sent to ask Mr. Gregson what position the men would be placed in at the end of the present agreement was presented. Mr. Gregson still offered the same terms which had been already rejected, and said, if not accepted, they would probably receive notice; further, they must be distinct from any third party between him and themselves. After hearing this report, the following motion was carried:—"That the secretary write to Mr. Gregson informing him that this lodge decided against his proposal by ballot, and that they still adhere to that decision."

Several waggon loads of Walhollow wool have been brought into the railway station here. In consequence of shearers being scarce, several stations are prevented from making a start.

AMUSEMENTS.

The wet weather last night operated to prevent there being a large audience at any place of amusement save the School of Arts, where Mr. Maccabe gave his entertainment before a crowded house. "Olivette" is in the last nights of its run at the Theatre Royal, for on Saturday evening it will be withdrawn in favour of Offenbach's "Madame Favart," an opera of much greater merit. "La Fille de Madame Angot" will be kept on at the Opera House until Saturday night, when Franz von Suppe's spectacular opera, "Fatinitza," will be produced. At the Queen's Theatre "Macbeth" was successfully repeated last night, and will be given again this evening. To-morrow night "Much Ado About Nothing," with Mr. Dewhurst as Benedict, will be the drama acted.

Herr August Wilhelmj, after giving a series of concerts at both Melbourne and Adelaide—and meeting with more generous support from the public of each city than he received here—has returned to Sydney, and will give four more concerts at the Masonic Hall, the first taking place to-night. One of the numbers to be played by the great violinist is Tartini's famous "Devil's Sonata," and, as will be seen by reference to our advertising columns, the programme put forth is a very fine one. Herr Wilhelmj will, as on the occasion of his first visit, be assisted by Herr Vogrich and Miss Marie Conron. Miss Kate Thayer has remained in Melbourne, where she has achieved a brilliant success on the concert stage.

The committee having completed their arrangements for the Marcus Clarke fund matinee, have published in another column the programme for tomorrow afternoon's entertainment at the Theatre Royal. The bill includes Mr. Dewhurst, the great English tragedian; Miss Marian Willis, Mr. J. B. Steele, and other members of the Queen's Company, assisted by Mr. E. L. Scott in the 4th act of "Richelieu," followed by a grand concert. Amongst the names who take part in the latter are Mr. W. F. Baker, Mr. Walter Reynolds, Miss Carrie Godfrey, Mr. F. J. Halliwell (the celebrated English basso), Mr. Bomon, Messrs. S. Hodge, H. M'Mahon, E. Hopkins, J. Kennedy, and H. R. Woods, who will precede the world-famed Mr. Maccabe. The third part will be a complete act of "Olivette" by the whole of Mr. Musgrove's opera troupe. Mr. C. Huenerbein will act as pianiste, and amongst those who will aid in the "front of the house" arrangements will be the veteran manager, Mr. William Dind, and Mr. J. E. Kitts, so long and closely connected with the colonial stage. This is perhaps the greatest array of talent that has been brought together for any performance yet given in Australia, and ought to fill any house, apart from the benevolent character of the occasion for which it has been combined. Those who have studied "Peripatetic Philosophy," or read the sayings of "Atticus" should, now that "His Natural Life" has closed, aid the widow and six fatherless little ones of the most versatile writer Australia has yet known by patronising to-morrow's matinee.

THE NANA CREEK REEFS.

Our Grafton correspondent, writing under date of September 10, says:—

The news of the trial crushing of the quartz sent to the Mint from the prospectors' claim, Lady Matilda Reef, Nana Creek, created considerable excitement when the result was known. The yield, if overrated by a few, has still been so good as to put an immediate value on all the adjacent claims. The total quantity of stone sent was 45½cwt., and the total yield of gold produced, 58oz. 17dwt., the assay value of the gold being £3 17s. per ounce. The stone selected from the first 16 feet of the shaft gave at the rate of 20oz. 10dwt. to the ton; that from a depth of 25 feet yielded as high as 154oz. 4dwt. The shaft is down now about 30 feet, and the stone by all accounts is better than at the 25-foot level. The stone sent to Sydney was of course selected; but it is said a better lot of equal quantity could now be forwarded. The width of the reef is over four feet; but the gold-bearing portion is very much narrower.

Two new reefs have been discovered. One, named the Yankee Doodle, is about three-quarters of a mile to the north-east of the Lady Matilda. The prospectors are Messrs. W. Leach, W. Coulter, and party. This reef, like the Lady Matilda, runs east and west. The other is named the Illibo, and is somewhat to the east of the other reefs. The prospects from both reefs are said to be very encouraging, and, as is always the case, the ground was immediately pegged out for a long distance.

The owners of the prospecting claim on the Dargue line of reef have purchased the battery belonging to the Reform Company at Solferino for the sum of £350, and are calling for tenders to remove it to their site at Nana Creek. It is likely to be the first machine erected at that place.

A good deal of land is applied for under mineral leases, to mine for chromate of iron. This mineral is found on Gordon Brook run, and is said to lie on the surface in large quantities. Several gentlemen went up and examined the ground lately, and having procured samples have forwarded them on for assay. On that report will depend whether they will work the ground or not.

A Mr. Rankin, from Victoria, has been up to inspect some ground near Malera, the holders of which wish to have machinery, and have made an offer to some Melbourne capitalists to induce them to furnish the requisite plant. Mr. Rankin speaks very favourably of the country about Solferino and its reefs as likely ultimately to furnish a field for the employment of a large number of miners.

MELBOURNE, MONDAY.

Since the Brighton accident a careful inspection has been made on all the suburban lines of the rolling stock. The Falls Bridge over the Yarra, on the soundness of which doubts were expressed, has been tested in various ways, and declared to be perfectly safe. The Inspectors of Permanent Way have been instructed to immediately condemn all doubtful rails, carriages, &c., and replace them with sound material.

Railway extension to the south-western ports of Warrnambool and Belfast has been strongly advocated, and the Minister for Railways leaves for Avoca on Thursday morning, proceeding to Ararat next day, and from thence to Glen Thompson, and on to Warrnambool, for the purpose of inspecting the various routes proposed. The Minister will probably be absent five days.

Country excursion tickets on the Victorian Railways will in future be available from Friday evening till the following Monday, instead of from Saturday to Monday as formerly.

James Kelly, brother of the late notorious bushranger, and Wild Wright have been committed for trial on a a charge of horse-stealing at Beechworth. The evidence showed that just before the arrest of Kelly he discharged four shots out of a revolver, and challenged the policeman to "come on;" riding off, however, on the latter approaching them.

A question has been raised as to the legality of appointments made by the Governor during his absence from the colony, including the elevation of Judge Holroyd to the Bench. It is contended that the Governor has no right to sign appointments, &c., while outside of the colony. It is said the question will be properly tested. Relative to the legality of Judge Holroyd's appointment, the Government are prepared to accept any criticisms on their action. The question was fully debated at the time of the appointment, and they are satisfied that the position is perfectly legal.

The Hon. James Lorimer (chairman), the Hon. J. Wallace, and Mr. Templeton, late police magistrate, have been appointed a board to investigate the charges against Mr. R. G. Ford, engineer of construction on the Victorian railways. In addition to Mr. Ford's case, other professional matters will be inquired into, and the board's report on these points will be utilized in the scheme for the reorganization of the department.

Mr. N. C. M'Kellar, who was injured in the Brighton railway accident, was more seriously hurt than at first supposed. He has been very unwell since the accident, and it is now discovered that he received a severe strain of the valves of the heart. A consultation has been fixed in his case for Wednesday. Mr. A. E. Moore's crushed arm is giving him much pain. It is still too much swollen to set the fracture, and yesterday symptoms of erysipelas were manifested. The swollen part was, however, lanced. The patient is now much easier. Mr. Bruce Gaunson has been confined to his bed ever since the accident. He is now much better.

A demonstration by the Radical party took place at Ballarat to-night. A tea meeting was held in the Alfred Hall, which was three-parts filled with men, women, and children. Subsequently a public meeting was held, at which Mr. Graham Berry delivered a lengthy speech, eulogizing the acts of his late Administration, and attacking the policy of the present Government. He made a strong appeal to the Radical party to attempt the abolition of plural voting. Messrs. Vale, Langridge, and other prominent members of the Berry party were present.

The Reform League Conference now sitting at Ballarat adopted a resolution adverse to the Government proposal to appoint a commission on the working of the Education Act. They also decided in favour of abolishing plural voting, the prevention of Chinese immigration, and further, that the land tenure should be so altered as to prevent the aggregation of large estates; also that closed roads should be thrown open, and no further alienation of country lands be permitted.

The attention of the Government has been directed to the alleged numerous breaches of the Game Laws in respect to undersized fish and young game. Increased supervision is to be immediately effected.

At a meeting of the Forest Board, to-day, the fact was mentioned that 150,000 trees had been planted this season in the Northern Forest reserve. Allusion was made to the fact that a large amount of planting had been done by the farmers and corporations in the North during the present system.

At the inquest on the man Wright, whose body was found in the West-terrace Cemetery, a verdict of suicide by shooting was returned. Letters were found on the body which directed the jury not to find "temporary insanity," as he knew quite well what he was about to do. Wright seems to have been what is known as an advanced Freethinker.

In the Supreme Court to-day the case of Fowler against the Collector of Customs came up for adjustment of costs. Mr. Fowler's counsel said that, in view of the resolution of the House in regard to the differential duty on chicory root, his client was satisfied, and would not oppose the usual course of costs. An order was made accordingly.

THE WEATHER.

The recent rains have been the more acceptable in consequence of having been pretty general, many of the meteorological stations yesterday having reported a fall. In Sydney, during Saturday and Sunday, the rainfall did not exceed more than ½-inch; but yesterday the sky was overcast, and the wind blew coldly, as if rain were in its wake. In the evening a steady rain commenced and continued all night. Mr. H. C. Russell, the Government Astronomer, has informed us that since Saturday a general rain has taken place all over the colony, except in the locality of Port Macquarie, and even there the weather was cloudy. The wind has blown principally from the west and south-west. Yesterday it was still raining at Murrurundi, Coonabarabran, Wilcannia, Hill End, Forbes, Young, Moss Vale, Wagga Wagga, Cape George, Moruya, Bodalla, Cooma, and Eden. The heaviest rain recorded is 3·12 inches, at Moss Vale. On the Darling, at Bourke, 1 inch was recorded, and at Wilcannia and stations thereabouts the quantity was 1·38 inches. On the Murray the rain has graduated from 2 inches to ½ inch; and on the western slopes of the main range it amounted to about 2 inches, while on the mountains it extended from 2 to 3 inches. In Victoria the weather was generally cloudy, with south-easterly winds, and prospects of rain in the north-eastern parts of the colony.

THE TURF.

The settling over the late A. J. C. Spring Meeting took place at Tattersall's last evening. The following is a list of the winnings:—J. Mayo, £369; C. G. Baldock, £568; Captain Osborne, £514; R. Rouse, £495; F. Wentworth, £487 14s.; Thomas Chirnside, £247; P. Brennan, £207; Hon. James White, £191 4s.; W. Forrester, £175; C. M'Donnell, £146; Chas. Watt, £138; H. C. Dangar, £120; T. Yeomans, £20: total, £5025. Champagne was ordered by Mr. John Mayo, and the committee; but the majority of the winners were absent, and the scene was not so spirited as it used to be in the days of yore, when it was the custom to pay the prizes in Tattersall's room.

Mr. T. S. Clibborn held a sale of racehorses yesterday, when Waxy was purchased by Mr. F. Wentworth for 2200 guineas; and Gloucester by Mr. W. Forrester, for 300 guineas.

Our West Maitland correspondent telegraphs that a good many horses have arrived for the Northern Jockey Club races; but it is feared the wet weather will have a bad effect on the attendance. The course is very sloppy, and the going exceedingly heavy.

SCULLING MATCH FOR £300.

Another of the important series of aquatic contests arranged to come off on the Parramatta River took place yesterday afternoon. The competitors were Michael Rush and J. J. Power, who sculled from Charity Point to The Brothers, the former giving £200 to his opponent's £100. The afternoon was about as unfavourable as can well be imagined, for a heavy southerly wind swept across the course, and the usually placid river was by its influence worked into a mobility such as we seldom witnessed. A little rain fell, and the temperature was exceedingly raw. The steamer Prince of Wales in the interest of Rush, and the Princess in the interest of Power, steamed to the course pretty full of the usual attendants upon a boat race. The betting ruled in favour of Rush to the extent of 2 to 1, and business at a little over that rate took place immediately prior to the start. Rush was the first to appear on the scene, stripped in readiness for the race, and after a preliminary burst took up his position; but it was scarcely right that he should have to wait 10 minutes for his adversary. Once in line—Power with the inside and Rush with the outside station under the shelter of the south shore—they lost no time in breaking away. When fairly at work Rush in about 50 to 100 yards went up past his rival in a way that at once called forth an increase in the betting in his favour. Power sculled dangerously close inshore, and could not have benefited by the passage over the shallow water which is said to retard the speed of boats. Rush continued to draw ahead, rowing his usual fast stroke, and, when passing Uhr's Point, he had his stern clear of his opponent's bows, and drawing ahead crossed and took Power's water. They passed on through the squalls and disturbed water, and yet Rush got farther away, and had two lengths at half a mile from the start. Power seemed to be hit by a strong gust, and was carried to leeward a bit; but Elias Laycock, who directed his course from the bridge of the Princess, soon had him on the right track again. At three-quarters of a mile there was no change in position, and bets were made of 10 to 4 on Rush. Rush, however, was now observed to be in trouble, and his boat made exceedingly bad weather of it. Power stuck gamely to his work, and made a much better display of watermanship, which quickly carried him up on an equality with his rival. Passing the beacon on the mile point, six minutes from the start, Rush appeared to be a few feet only ahead, and his wild rowing turned the betting round to odds on Power. They were together for a short distance, when the superior staying ability of Power began strongly to manifest itself, and amidst a Babel of yelling and shouting, Power went prominently ahead, and was not afterwards overtaken by Rush, who steered injudiciously. Half way from the Mile Point to Putney Power led by two lengths, Rush being well over on the opposite shore, and he got rather far into the bight on nearing Breakfast Point. Past the latter point, Power led by three or four lengths, and after this increased the distance as he liked, between himself and Rush, who seemed to be completely used up, for he pulled irregularly and looked round frequently. He showed better form as he got into smooth water nearing Hen and Chickens Point, but even here Power was eight or nine lengths in front, and after both men had experienced a bit of very heavy work in pulling across an exposed stretch of water near Gladesville Wharf Rush seemed to lose hope. The consequence was that when opposite the Sydney Rowing Club's boathouse he stopped short, and answering the shouts of encouragement from his friends by simply shaking his head, rowed to the jetty there. Power was now about 12 lengths ahead, and he rowed in past the flag, winning as he liked in 23 minutes 50¾ seconds, the time being exceedingly good considering the very unfavourable circumstances under which the race took place. The tide, however, was in favour of the scullers. In the evening, at Punch's Hotel, Mr. T. Thompson, the stakeholder, handed Mr. Power the stakes, and congratulated him on his success, and spoke of his ability as a first-class rowing man. Rush again challenged Power, and a match was at once agreed upon for £200 aside, to come off on Saturday next, under the same conditions as the race yesterday.

CRICKET.

The annual meeting of the Waverley Cricket Club was held in the Council-chambers, Waverley, on Wednesday evening 7th instant, Mr. James N. Hart in the chair. From the report it appeared that the club had played 15 matches during last season; of these seven were won, six lost, and two drawn. P. A. Fitzpatrick secured Mr. Marks' trophy for best average batting, and A. Cane secured Mr. Marks' trophy for bowling, with an average of 2·8 runs per wicket. Messrs. Cooke and Barlow also obtained trophies for batting and bowling respectively. There was a balance to the credit of the club of £14 13s. 1d. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year, viz.:—President, Mr. James Marks; vice-presidents, Messrs. John Macpherson, J. H. Newman, T. Read, and James N. Hart; treasurer, H. B. Brewer; secretary, T. J. Dickson; committee, Messrs. Barlow, Beverley, and Cooke. Trophies were promised by Messrs. Wiley and Small.

We have been shown a very handsome trophy made by Mr. Evan Jones, of Hunter-street, the gift of Alderman John Young, to the Carlton Cricket Club, for the highest single score made during the past season. It has been won by J. Davis, with the fine score of 78 made against the University Club, and will be presented to that gentleman at the annual meeting of the Carlton Club, to be held at the Freemasons' Hotel, York-street, on Wednesday next, the 14th instant. The trophy is in the form of a shield, surmounted with a crown, a bat being let in the centre with the initials of the winner raised in diamonds. An inscription appears on the back.

The annual general meeting of the Belvidere Cricket Club was held at Punch's Hotel on the 8th instant. Mr. G. B. Blaxland occupied the chair, and the following report was read and adopted in the presence of a large attendance of members:—"Gentlemen,—The report which your committee now have the pleasure of submitting for your adoption can only be regarded as eminently satisfactory. Out of 22 matches played by your first eleven (five of which were drawn), 13 were won and four lost; and out of 15 played by your second eleven (two of which were drawn), seven were won and six lost. In the first eleven, W. D. Mair wins the trophy for batting with an average of 17·9 runs per innings, and the trophy for aggregate with a total of 305 runs; and L. Lindeman secures the trophy for bowling, having delivered 1308 balls for an average of 5·1 runs per wicket. In the second eleven, J. Bush secures the trophy for batting with an average of 19·4 runs per innings; and the trophy for bowling falls to G. Ring with an average of 4·7 runs per wicket. J. Richardson wins the special prize kindly presented by Mr. R. G. Higgins, one of your vice-presidents, for the highest individual score: and C. Richardson is awarded the special prize presented by your delegate for fielding. Your committee think the warmest thanks are due to those gentlemen who have presented special prizes, and cheerfully acknowledge the valuable assistance rendered by the following players, whose performances entitle them to special mention:—Batting: J. Richardson, 13·2; G. Blaxland, 10; C. Richardson, 17·8; G. Ring, 11·4; and Roberts, 10·7. Bowling: J. Richardson, 3·8; T. Higgins, 5·8; J. Bush, 4·4; and J. S. Spurway, for his excellent fielding and bowling. By the foregoing it will be seen that the efforts of your representatives in the field were attended by marked success, and the treasurer's report shows that your subscribers have increased sufficiently to entitle you to delegate two of your number to represent you at committee meetings of the association, and that there is a balance at the credit of the general account of £45 2s. 7d., including a cash balance of £30 10s. 1d., which are doubtless matters for congratulation. During the Easter vacation your first eleven visited Maitland and Singleton, at both of which places they were victorious, and your committee desire again to place on record their appreciation of the hospitality and kindly welcome your representatives invariably receive from the cricketers of those districts. The loss of the Domain was again severely felt by your club, in view of which your committee regret that the ground committee did not see their way to allot you a fair share of Saturdays on the Association Ground; and whilst your committee are fully alive to the necessity of making the ground pay, they cannot but regard the action of the ground committee in giving the virtual monopoly of that ground to four clubs as calculated to impede the progress of cricket. It is comforting, however, to know that your actions during the ensuing season will not be so straitened by the want of grounds, for the Domain will be handed over at an early date, and your committee learn with much satisfaction that cups will be probably competed for by senior and junior clubs, as they consider these contests will create new interest, and give a healthy stimulus to cricket. The welcome news has just reached your committee that your worthy patron, Mr. F. H. Dangar, is enjoying good health in the mother country, and that he has this month shipped a box of cricketing material as a present to your club. This thoughtful remembrance of the club by him whilst in the antipodes, must make the heart of every Belvidere warm towards that gentleman, who has always watched over your interests with a fostering care, and who has ever been foremost in promoting all manly sport. In conclusion, your committee thank you for your cordial support during the past season, and desire to point out that it now rests with you whether you wring from the future that harvest of success which is in store for those who exert themselves, and confident by hope you will each and all continue to be fired with that esprit de corps which makes a man love to face difficulties and sacrifice personal convenience for the sake of his club." The treasurer's report was read and adopted. The expediency of maintaining a practice wicket on the Association Ground in addition to the Domain, the desirability of engaging a professional coach, and the increase of the subscription to 30s., were affirmed. The following office-bearers were unanimously elected:—Patron, Mr. F. H. Dangar; president, the Hon. J. B. Watt, M.L.C.; vice-presidents, Messrs. H. H. Brown, M.L.A., R. G. Higgins, J. R. Street, and J. L. Adams; delegates, S. A. Lindeman and H. A. Holden; joint hon. secretaries, H. A. Holden and C. Lindeman; treasurer, S. A. Lindeman; committee, J. Richardson, J. Cooper, J. S. Spurway, A. Zollner, S. M. Cay, J. Bush. Eighteen new members were enrolled, and the meeting terminated with a cordial vote of thanks to the chairman.

PEDESTRIANISM.

Saturday, the last day of the go-as-you-please contest, brought together a good number of spectators, and the men walked almost as well as on the first day. Swan still kept the lead which he had held during the greater part of the match, and although Edwards tried hard he was unable to pass him. The best walking was exhibited during the evening from 8 o'clock, when the spirits of the men rose as the hour of 11 approached. Raynor and Williams did some splendid walking, as did also Swan and Edwards. Le Petit indulged in some antics. This "ped" had not, we believe, had the advantage of a trainer, so that the distance which he covered is remarkable. Edwards left the track after completing 423 miles 3 laps. The men were applauded without any regard to party feeling, and at about 10 o'clock p.m. walking about in the enclosure was attended with difficulty, while on the adjacent walls were seated a numerous audience. A mistake which, we think, might be easily remedied is the tendency of the public to crowd the track. On Saturday evening the track was so crowded that the competitors had barely room to walk along. At 11 p.m. Swan was declared winner, Edwards second, Raynor third. Mr. J. Seymour addressed the audience, thanking them for their patronage. Messrs. Swan, Raynor, and Williams briefly returned thanks for the cheers given on their behalf. Swan and Raynor were each presented with a large bouquet of flowers, and were chaired round the last lap. Edwards did not appear. Swan, the winner, is about 26 years of age, and is a native of Sweden, and arrived some years back and settled in Auckland, N. Z. This is the second time he has beaten Edwards, the other instance being at the tournament held at Launceston, where he also beat Baker. He has also appeared in a match of a similar character at Adelaide, when Edwards won first prize and Swan second. Swan was trained by Carmichael. Edwards has been so often before the public, and his performances are so well known, that it is needless to repeat them; suffice it to say that he has only in a few instances had to lower his colours while in Australia. He was trained by M'Fadden and Lardner; while E. Weinner did a similar duty for Raynor. The following were the distances covered, and at the undermentioned times At 8.5 p.m.:—

	Miles.	Laps.		Miles.	Laps.
Swan ..	425	11	Campbell ..	327	3
Edwards ..	421	16	Le Petit ..	323	2
Raynor ..	403	14	Baker (ret.)..	193	5

From this time till Edwards left the track Swan went away from him rapidly, and Williams was also augmenting his score by some fast walking. Raynor's walking was the feature of the evening, and he came in for a large share of applause. At 9.30 p.m. the board showed—

	Miles.	Laps.		Miles.	Laps.
Swan ..	431	9	Williams ..	353	0
Edwards (ret.)	423	3	Le Petit ..	328	0
Raynor ..	408	0	Campbell ..	327	0

and the same relative positions were kept till the end of the match.

The distances at 10.40 p.m. were—

	Miles.	Laps.		Miles.	Laps.
Swan ..	431	0	Williams ..	355	7
Edwards ..	retired	0	Le Petit ..	334	0
Raynor ..	413	8	Campbell ..	328	0

All men appeared in good form, and showed very little appearance of having done six days and nights' walking.

At the conclusion of the match the telegraph showed—

	Miles.	Laps.		Miles.	Laps.
Swan ..	434	5	Williams ..	355	7
Edwards ..	423	3	Le Petit ..	335	1
Raynor ..	414	1	Campbell ..	328	0

The band of the No. 3 Volunteer Fire Brigade were also in good form, and played a variety of airs.

PARLIAMENTARY NOTICES.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.—Tuesday, September 13.

There are seven questions on the business paper of the Legislative Assembly for to-day, followed by 11 notices of motion, and one order of the day, the third reading of the Justices Appeal Bill. The first notice is by Mr. Cooke,—1. That, in the opinion of this House, it is in the public interest that fresh legislation should soon take place in relation to the Crown lands of the colony, and that in any such legislation a leading principle should be the division of the pastoral runs, having a portion set apart solely for conditional sale for bona fide settlers, the remaining portion to be held by lease only at an increased rental for a term not exceeding 10 years. 2. That tracts of mallee and other bad scrub lands be let as clearing leases by tender for a longer term of years. The next notice is by Mr. R. B. Smith, for the adoption of the report of the select committee on the petition of Mr. E. W. Rudder. Notice No. 3 is by Mr. Abigail, for copies of all the papers in connection with the suspension of the locomotive engineer. Mr. Bodel has given notice that he will move to go into committee to consider an address to the Governor, praying that the sum of £25,000 may be placed on the Estimates for the purpose of conservation of water in the country districts. The next notice is by Mr. Copeland, affirming the desirability of opening the Gallery of Arts from 2 p.m. to 5 on Sundays. Next comes Mr. W. Clarke's notice for the reduction of railway freights on farm produce to three farthings per ton per mile. The next notice is by Mr. Forster,—That this House disapproves of the course taken by the gaol authorities at Darlinghurst,—1. In compelling vaccination of any person from the person described as "the woman Fisher." 2. In inflicting penalties upon Mary Ann Thompson for refusing to be vaccinated. The following notice is also by Mr. Forster,—That there be laid upon the table of this House a return of all free railway passes granted to members of, or to persons connected with, the press as such from 1st January, 1880, to the present time, specifying the name of every such grantee or holder of such pass, the newspaper or other periodical with which he is or was at the time connected, the nature of such connection, and the special purpose or occasion for which every such pass was granted. Mr. Teece has notice No. 9, to move for correspondence in reference to the Binda and Fish River road. The next notice is by Mr. Burns,—That there be laid upon the table of this House a return showing, as accurately as can be ascertained, the names of all persons to whom any land situate on or adjacent to the route of the proposed railway from Homebush to Waratah has been transferred from the 1st January, 1879, to date of return. The last notice stands in the name of Mr. Roseby,—That the Government should make arrangements for classified lithograph plans, with printed specifications, for the public buildings required in the various townships of the colony.

BAPTIST UNION OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

The annual session of the Baptist Union commenced on Tuesday, September 6th, in the Harris-street Church. The Rev. D. Fenwick preached the annual sermon to a good congregation, and the Rev. W. Taylor, the retiring chairman, presided at the united communion service. The Rev. Mr. Kingdon (Victorian delegate) and the Revs. H. Phillips and W. Caller also took part in the service.

On Wednesday, September 7th, the ministers and delegates assembled in Bathurst-street Church at 9.30 a.m. for prayer, and at 10.30 the business session was inaugurated. The retiring chairman, in a few well-chosen words, introduced the chairman for the year, the Rev. R. F. Becher, B.A., who delivered an appropriate address, thanking the delegates for the honour conferred upon him, and claiming their co-operation in his efforts to facilitate the interests of the union. The delegate from the Victorian association, the Rev. Mr. Kingdon, was accorded a hearty welcome, in reply to which he conveyed the fraternal greeting of the Victorian brethren, and expressed the hope that the time might soon come when a federation of the various Baptist associations throughout the Australian colonies would be consummated. The speech of the rev. gentleman created a most favourable impression, and was greeted with hearty applause by all present. The secretary announced that communications had been received from the secretary of the South Australian association to the effect that the Rev. Silas Mead and the Rev. Morgan Lloyd, who had been appointed to represent South Australia, were prevented from doing so through unavoidable causes at the last moment. Both of the fore-mentioned ministers sent letters expressing deep regret at their inability to come to Sydney, and desiring the richest blessings to attend the deliberations of the union meetings. The officers for the year were then elected, resulting in the following manner:—Chairman, Rev. W. Clare; secretary, Rev. D. Fenwick; treasurer, Rev. A. Burdett, editor of the Banner of Truth; Rev. W. Clare, financial secretary; Mr. Charles Lane, and an executive committee consisting of representatives from the various churches. The Rev. F. Hibberd having resigned the position of editor, which he had held for five years, the hearty thanks of the union were accorded to him for the faithful and efficient manner in which he had fulfilled his duties. Thanks were also accorded to the various officers of the union for their past services. Various matters of business pertaining to the union occupied the attention of the delegates until 5 p.m., when the business session was adjourned till the next day.

In the evening, at half-past 7 o'clock, the public meeting of the union was held in Bathurst-street Church. After the usual exercises of praise and prayer, the Rev. D. Fenwick read the secretary's report as follows:—

"The past year cannot be designated a very eventful one in our history, inasmuch as there have not been any great enterprises set in operation, or any startling incidents to be chronicled from a denominational standpoint. We have suffered more or less from that state of spiritual depression which seems to have been widespread throughout the Christian world; and in conjunction with our brethren of other denominations we have been thereby led to long for the breath of a more vigorous life, and the spirit of a more intense devotion among the churches of our faith and order throughout the land. But although the year just ended has not been so fruitful in great results as we may have desired, it has nevertheless been characterised by a spirit of patient and earnest labour, which cannot fail to operate beneficially upon the church life of the future. Like all pioneers we have had considerable difficulties to contend against; and while we would not underestimate the amount of faithful work which has been performed, neither would we be unthankful for the great blessings bestowed upon us by our gracious God, through despising in anywise what is manifestly with us the day of small things. Our city churches have not much to chronicle in the way of large additions to their membership, but it must not be inferred from this that they have not faithfully sowed the good seed of the Kingdom, or that they have not continued, in the midst of those unsettling influences which are manifestly at work in the world of religious thought, to adhere to the old paths and the good way which constitutes the salvation of God for sinful men throughout all ages. Since our last meeting we have to record the departure to another colony of the Rev. P. H. Cornford; but this break in our ministerial rank has been filled by the advent of the Rev. William Clare, who has now been pastor of Bathurst-street Church for a period of six months. We would avail ourselves of this opportunity to give our brother a hearty denominational welcome, and to desire for a long, happy, and useful ministry in his new and important sphere of labour. The church in William-street, Woolloomooloo, has recently taken vigorous action to secure a site of land for the erection of a church. Our brethren in that locality have hitherto been labouring under great disadvantges on account of being necessitated to meet in a small and inconveniently-situated hall, for which they pay a large rent, and which they can only use for the services of the Lord's Day. They have therefore set themselves nobly to work to better their condition, and in the efforts they are making we trust that they will receive the hearty sympathy and cheerful co-operation of all their brethren in the sister churches. Our Mission Church at Leichhardt has undergone considerable improvement during the year, not only in the increased attendance at the preaching services or in the additions that have been made to the Sunday school, but also in the improvements which have been effected in the building itself at a considerable outlay of money. This outlay, however, has been liquidated through the liberality of brethren in the various churches, and there only remains a debt of £75 upon the whole property. We trust to see this place growing with the increase of the district in population, and to see other places of a similar description established in all our rising suburbs. In Bathurst our brethren have been putting forth their energies to provide a comfortable residence for their minister, and we hope to see this effort, so auspiciously inaugurated, speedily eventuating in the matter becoming an accomplished fact. This example is one that might appropriately be followed by all our churches throughout the colony, for until proper provision is made for the comfortable maintainance of our ministers we cannot expect to secure that efficient ministry of the Word of Life, which is, or ought to be such a desideratum to any people. Under the earnest ministry of our brother, the Rev. William Coller, the church in Newcastle has been greatly resuscitated. Not only has the membership greatly increased, but the congregations have done so correspondingly, and the Sunday school is once more in vigorous operation. We are all the more glad of this because of the fluctuations through which the Newcastle Church has passed in the years that are gone, and because this result has been achieved independent of any monetary assistance from the funds of the union. We trust that Mr. Coller may be able to continue this work until, by the blessing of God, he is enabled to see the growth of a large and flourishing church established upon a stable basis, and which shall be worthy of the important city in which he is privileged to labour. The half-yearly meetings of the union were held at Newcastle in the month of April, and although not so largely attended as we could have desired, they were, nevertheless of a very enjoyable character, and were calculated to facilitate the interests of our denomination in that city. After the meetings had been held in Newcastle, the delegates from Sydney proceeded to Thalaba, in the Port Stephens district to take part in the opening of a new church which our Baptist brethren have succeeded in erecting free of debt. The opening services were very successful, and the impressions left on the minds of the delegates, through personal contact with the work in which Mr. Brener is engaged, were of the most favourable description. Our evangelist, Mr. Thomas Llewellyn, has been labouring very devotedly and successfully in the New Zealand district. He has travelled over 200 miles monthly, conducting from seven to eight services per week. He has baptised 18 persons during the year, and raised for church purposes, in conjunction with the friends throughout that district, the sum of £275 14s. 6d. Through his instrumentality, Mr. Fraser, of Saumarez Pond, near Armidale, has given a grant of land to the union, upon which a church has been erected. He has also secured an acre of ground in Armidale for which he generously advanced £115, to be repaid to him by the union not later than the year 1885. It is the intention of the brethren in Armidale to erect a building upon this site, and they are now busily at work collecting funds towards its accomplishment. Our brethren, the Revs. R. T. Becher and W. R. Harrison, have visited the scene of Mr. Llewellyn's labours during the year, and of the services which those two brethren rendered by their visit Mr. Llewellyn speaks in the very highest terms. The "Ladies Auxiliary" has rendered important service to the Evangelical Society by keeping the treasurer well supplied with funds. The efforts of our lady friends have been unremitting throughout the year, and they are well entitled to the hearty thanks of the whole denomination for giving such help in the great work of evangelization. The Banner of Truth has terminated the fifth year of its existence, and throughout the whole of that period the Rev. F. Hibberd has faithfully and gratuitously fulfilled the office of editor. Such a position is at best a very thankless and very onerous one—and we should undoubtedly be wanting in common gratitude did we not express our deep sense of appreciation for the service which Mr. Hibberd has thus so cheerfully rendered to the denomination. At the same time we would impress upon you the importance of giving our denominational organ a more consistent support by endeavouring to increase its circulation among the members of our churches; for if it is calculated to draw us closer together, to stimulate our energies, and deepen our interest in spiritual work, it is surely worthy of an honoured place in the home of every Baptist family throughout the land. From this cursory review of the year's proceedings you will be enabled to perceive that there has been action all along the line, and if that action may not have been so vigorous or well sustained as it ought, let us pray the Lord to forgive us for our unfaithfulness, and so to baptize us anew with the power of the Holy Spirit that we may thus be qualified for returning to our various stations, and doing greater exploits in his glorious service throughout the year upon which we have now entered."

The Rev. A. Burdett submitted the treasurer's statement for the year, showing a balance to the credit of the union.

The Rev. R. F. Becher then delivered the Chairman's Address, choosing for his subject "The need of power in our churches":—Brethren and Fathers: In considering the choice of a subject upon which to address you, it appeared to me that one topic is of paramount interest in the present day, and demands our consideration to the exclusion of almost all others—I mean the need of power in our churches. Acknowledging with thankfulness the mercies of the year past, making all due allowance for the partial successes which have been recorded in the reports of our churches and agencies, I still think—and I trust that you will, many of you, agree with me—that we need to be endued with more power from on high. Looking without any captious spirit on the other branches of the great vine, it appears to be a want experienced by them also; and as our gathering together is for mutual help and comfort, I venture to think that we shall be more likely to benefit by the consideration of a subject which has a common interest for all earnest-hearted disciples of the Master than by conclusively showing to one another that we must be right and everyone else perfectly in the wrong. I shall endeavour firstly to define what I mean by power; secondly, I shall show you that my supposition that it is a want felt, if not acknowledged, is true; and then I shall consider (a) the source of weakness and (b) the remedy for such a state of things. Firstly, as to the sense in which I use the word "power." The Saviour's words will occur to most of you, "All power is given to Me in heaven and in earth." But while we acknowledge the power with which, as with Elijah's mantle, the early disciples of Jesus were clothed, and gladly recognise it as Divine, I cannot overlook that which many Christian writers and teachers seem to ignore, that there is a great similarity between the effect of earthly power and the Divine enthusiasm of the Christian Church, whilst their sources are widely different. The power of the Church of Christ is not merely the magnetism of eye and voice such as the great masters of oratory have wielded, but it seems rather to depend upon some subtler inward quality. An apostle lays his finger on the spring when he says "to be spiritually minded is (life in our version) really activity and peace." The power which holiness gives when "we walk in the light" and "Christ liveth in me," is true for us individually; and the rare quality of seeing the end beyond the difficulties that occupy the foreground of the present. So Quentin Matsys, the Antwerp blacksmith, saw the glories of an artist's career through the murky smoke of his forge fire, so the Israelite leader saw "the recompense of the reward" beyond the desert haze, and the nearer foreground of present toil. If we try to analyze or to define it more closely, it escapes us; like the wind it comes, and goes "we know not how." We see its effect as we do the little spot of light mirrored on the screen, or the minute stream from the syphon recorder, as they obey the will of the operator a thousand miles away, but the modus operandi is beyond our ken. Secondly, if we take the great mass of the Christian churches, judging by their own utterances and by observation, they do not wield the influence they ought to exercise. Of course there are exceptions, which only prove the rule. But of these who profess godliness, are there not some official Christians, a fair proportion of moral 20s. in the pound Christians, and a certain number of denominationalists, who at the annual tea meeting or celebration cry, "Great is Diana" of the union, the synod, the assembly, or the conference, as the case may be? Whilst there are not a few from whose religious life if you substract the outward forms of worship, the residuum left would be so small that only angels with celestial microscopes could perceive it. And yet the majority are excellent people in their way. They have no vices. The utmost extent of their evil doing is perhaps the slamming a door when domestic affairs go wrong, or a mild ebulition of orthodoxy at some pronounced utterance of modern freethought. But can these excellent persons be termed in any sense the spiritual descendants of those who filled the prisons and supplied the victims for the fires of days gone by? Or can they trace legitimate descent from those who said to the mightiest of old-world monarchs, "O king, we will not serve thy gods?" Observe, too, how small a percentage of the hard-headed, close-thinking mechanics is to be found amongst the workers in congregations. You find them, of course, as you find other classes. But go to some great factory or large railway contract, get among "the hands," and you will find a few who have the "power," and exercise it; still more who have the form only, singing "I will believe, I do believe," upon one day in the week, but for the remaining six "they have found the life of their hand, and therefore they are not grieved;" not to mention the openly irreligious, whose god is their belly, and who "mind earthly things." You see it here in the city; but I could tell you of a country town where circus and theatre are only too well filled, and (tell it not in Gath) many of those composing the audience had been regenerated at the font, and had renounced (by proxy, at least) the vanities of this world. We admit that these people may be good citizens; but if it be true "that the friendship of the world is enmity with God," there is grave cause for all who love our Lord Jesus Christ to enquire why it can so seldom be reported "that almost the whole city came together to hear the word of God," and why the people's hearts are so seldom "bowed like the heart of one man." And these of whom I speak are all spirits clothed with flesh; beings who shall either swell yet louder the anthem of praise or meet as best they may the outer darkness. To carry the banner of the cross into this yet unconquered country, we have our regular troops, those who in our own churches have put on Christ, or in other communions have "set to their seal that God is true," and a proportion of unattached irregulars who without professing to do so have actually laid hold on Jesus as the Christ. And of this Gospel contingent a certain number are brethren of the higher life, who sing "Keep Thine armour bright," but whenever the battle bulges towards them they draw away from the dust of the conflict, and, seated on the hill of their respectability, fall to scouring, lest their harness get soil or stain. They would be soldiers, but, like the nobleman in Shakespear's Henry IV., they dislike that one should bring a "slovenly unhandsome corse betwixt the wind and their nobility." They do not like contact with irreligious people. They like to see souls saved, but the works must be done by the minister—is not that his business? There are others who dislike to speak plainly for fear of giving offence, or hurting prejudices which are perhaps imaginary. Now, is not it a fact that none of these things are permitted to hinder either politics or trade? Men will, to use their own phrase, "push a line" and "do business" boldly, who are too retiring in disposition to say "just a word for Jesus," and will, without fear, urge the political claims of a candidate upon an acquaintance, when they would not dream of trying to induce the same person under similar circumstances to declare himself on the side of Christ. The custom, only too common, of counting heads of estimating success by quantity rather than quality, by the numbers on the Church book, rather than the likeness to Christ developed in the individual members, has done its measure of harm too. Men are so accustomed to the tea meeting argument, that Christianity must be right because there are 350 millions of Christians, that they forget that an inference may be drawn from the 500 millions of Buddhist's that Buddhism is still nearer the truth. Take the case of young persons whose parents are pious and wish them to join the Church (this has been ere now actually assigned as a reason), their teachers do so too. The pastors and deacons welcome them, in fact the current sets towards the profession of religion, and if they are of the quiet, unobtrusive disposition they become members; and too often believe themselves, and are regarded by others as having done all that can be expected, and so they drift serenely along, assenting to all that is done for them, but utterly without the motive power, the fiery zeal which knows no obstacle—the aggressive Chistianity, which amid difficulties and disappointments, amid shipwrecked hopes and traitorous friends, in spite of the world's sneer (or its still more dangerous approval), exclaims, "None of these things move me." On the Clarence River, where I reside, the sugar-cane is conveyed to the crushing mills in large punts, each holding many tons, and you may see the fussy little steamer, "that walked the waters like a thing of life," alone, creeping slowly along between two huge loads of cane. So does the energetic portion of the Church toil painfully along, harnessed, to the sweet but really inactive portion of her members. Our feeble grasp of the grand truth of His resurrection makes us weaker also. Because we fail to make the risen Christ our daily companion and friend, as He wishes to be, we have to make spasmodic efforts after communion with Him. The apostles' power reached them after 10 days of expectancy. Do we wait in like manner at the open gate of prayer? I have not mentioned the weakness of dissension. Has not even a poet of our own told us that

> "As we wax hot in faction,
> In battle we grow cold;
> Wherefore men fight not as they fought
> In the brave days of old."

But turning to the brighter side. What shall the remedy be? Looking at Apostolic Christianity, we notice that our Lord recognised the need of power, for He directed His followers to wait until they were clothed (as with a garment) with power from on high. And we, too, recognise its divine character. Let men speak as they will of the magnetism of numbers, let them talk as they please of attractive services, and the æsthetic influences of storied pane and pealing organ; let the professional Revivalist galvanize mummified churches, where the cerements of form scarce hide the decaying remnants of what was once the power; or, let the revived sit on the stool of penitence until nervous excitement simulates the tear of Godly sorrow, or the rejoicing song of the liberated bondslave of sin—the only power of any value to us must be from above. A careful examination of the Apostolic addresses, as recorded in the New Testament, will show that the speakers always emphasized a present living Christ. Referring to the Concordance, you will find that over 20 passages in the later books point to this doctrine directly, whilst there are innumerable allusions to it. This was the theme of Paul's appeal to the Athenians, "Jesus and the Resurrection." This it was that early in the history of the Christian Church grieved the Sadducees, because its leaders "preached through Jesus the resurrection from the dead;" and to his simple summary of Christian doctrine, addressed to the Church at Rome, the Apostle adds, "And shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised Him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." This should be as much a part of our life-teaching as "that He died for our sins according to the Scriptures," for "if Christ be not risen our faith is vain." We hold it as a cherished truth. We illustrate it every time that we go down into the water to baptize men into "His death," that they may be also in the likeness of his resurrection. We sing—

> "So Thee in faith we follow,
> And trace thy path of love,
> Through the strange, solemn waters,
> Up to Thy throne above."

But do the mass of professing Christians realize the Christ present, though imperceptible to the bodily senses? Now and then He is "known to us in the breaking of bread." But are not "the eyes of many holden that they do not know Him," and yet ought not that Presence of the upper room and the lake shore, of the Temple courts and the home at Bethany, of the grave of Lazarus and the joyous wedding of Cana, to be as much ours as when the laggards of the band of disciples caught a glimpse of the fold of his mantle as he traced the windings of the rocky pathway between Bethany and Jerusalem?

> "Not a brief glance, I beg a passing word,
> But as Thou dwellest with Thy disciples, Lord."

True, He is present in spirit now. But, what is spirit? Something less or more real than matter. Surely not the former; or else the life to come, instead of intensity of consecration and grand activity when "His servants shall serve Him," will be merely the fulfilment of the old Greek shadow land, concerning which the great Homeric Hero preferred to wield the distaff among mortals, than to reign a monarch over pallid shades. Yes.

> "Jesus lives our hearts know well,
> Nothing from His love can sever."

And if we do but speak to men with the thought in our hearts that He is really here—not far distant, but close beside us—and when they search for the letter whisper to them "He is risen." These words do but embalm His character, as the graveclothes for a brief period enshrined His form. Then, methinks, from many a doubting troubled soul will rise the cry, "Lord, I believe," and the agony of search will change into the joy and peace of believing. In the case of Catherine of Sienna, one of the strange enthusiasts of the fourteenth century, we see how the firm belief in the presence of the risen Christ made a peasant girl for twenty years one of the foremost figures on the stage of Europe, the adviser of popes and cardinals, the correspondent of kings and queens, and one of the fairest gleams of light that heralded the dawn after the long night of mediæval superstition. So shall we have (as Dr. Stanford says) not merely men with intellectual grasp of truth—valuable as that is—but men full of faith and power, who know that once they were lost, that now they are saved; men who have looked into the pit's mouth and seen from a far the Delectable Mountains; men of passionate faith, passionate love; men of pertinacity, who never say die—in whose hearts Christ has kindled a divine fire, who took to Jesus feeling that He is their life, and who, by the power of that life, with face of resolution and step of strength that keeps time to the music of the Psalms, will march through fire and water, in the Lord's name, to do the Lord's work. If we examine the mental condition of the disciples immediately before the day of Pentecost, and study their surroundings, comparing the rise of Christianity with that of other religions, we shall find that in each case the earlier propagators were carried forward not only by their enthusiasm, but were also largely helped by the radical or liberal element (whichever your proclivities please you to call it), which always arises whenever conservatism presses too strongly; it is the law of recoil—this desk presses equally against my hand as my hand presses on it. In France previously to the revolution, as the Government oppression increased, so did the resistance of the masses. So it is in Russia to-day, and, similarly, as soon as a religion becomes conservative, dissent breaks out violent in proportion to the intensity of the conservative feeling. This is the case alike amid Mahommedans and Buddhists, and in the churches of Scotland and England. It is one of those great laws which, like the precession of the Equinoxes, take effect so slowly that men often overlook them; and yet in every one of these instances there were men who knew how to seize the tide at its flood, and, borne forward on its crest, effect new reforms and secure yet greater freedom for man in the domain of thought, of conscience, and of faith; for

> "Does not night bring forth the morning;
> Does not darkness father light?
> Even now we have forewarning,
> Brothers, of the close of night."

Carnal wisdom, perchance, some will say. Ah, me! Does He not hold the hearts of men, and like the rivers of water turn them whithersoever He will? Did not old seekers after national life and energy cry, in their unrest, "Turn our captivity, oh Lord, as the streams in the south?" Therefore, seize we on the very unrest and dissatisfaction of men. It is just this that breaks the thraldom of old sects and habits of indifference and slumber; the warm rays of the Sun of Righteousness are but shrinking the wooden staves of empty vessels which hold no water, from the iron bands of creed and custom which until now have bound them, and as they fall apart let us strive, in unison with all who love our Lord Jesus in incorruptness (Rev. v.), to kindle them with the living presence of Christ. That presence, with the humblest speaker or worker, with the eloquent pastor of the great city congregation, or with the stammering tongue that addresses a country audience, shall draw us all nearer to each other, and to our brethren of diverse views; our brethren still, though they acknowledge us not. It shall—it must win, victories as in days of old. The sinful shall look up to find pardon and peace; the sceptic "wildered in doubt, in darkness lost," see light; the weary and the heavy laden find the rest they crave. And

> "'Oer every foe victorious
> He on his throne shall rest,
> From age to age more glorious
> All blessing and all blest."

The meeting was afterwards addressed by the Victorian representative, and the hearty thanks of the meeting were tendered to Mr. Becher for his address, on the motion of the Rev. H. Phillips, seconded by the Rev. W. Clare. The meeting was brought to a close at a quarter to 10 o'clock.

On Thursday, September 8, the delegates assembled in the Bathurst-street Church, at 10 a.m., for the resumption of business, and were occupied the whole day in the consideration of matters of great importance to the denomination. In the evening, at 6.30, the public tea-meeting of the Baptist Evangelist Society was held in the Newtown Church. The friends at Newtown, in honour of the evangelists, had decorated the church very beautifully, and provided an excellent tea for the occasion. There was a large representation from the other Baptist churches, and at the after meeting the church was crowded to its utmost capacity. The chairman of the union presided at the public meeting, and the Rev. W. Clare opened with prayer. Addresses were delivered by the evangelists, Jaggers, Harrison, and Llewellyn, also by the Victorian delegate—Rev. Mr. Kingdon. After votes of thanks had been duly carried, on the motion of the secretary, one of the most interesting and successful meetings of the Evangelist Society was brought to a close about 10 p.m. by the chairman pronouncing the benediction.

On Saturday, September 10, the usual harbour excursion took place. The day was beautifully fine, and the company on board the steamer had the opportunity of beholding Middle Harbour at its best. Nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the excursion in any way; and the many friends who accompanied the delegates on the occasion of this delightful outing were all safely landed at Circular Quay about 6.30 p.m.

SMALLPOX.

Shortly before 10 o'clock on Sunday night Dr. Hill, one of the Government medical officers, visited No. 83, Quay-street, Ultimo, when he found that the tenant, Mr. Edward Langley, aged 23, was suffering from an attack of smallpox. The house forms one of a number known as Harris' row, consists of three rooms, and is built on low-lying ground. The place is occupied by the patient; his wife Mrs. Catherine Langley, 21 years; his mother, Mrs Frances Lee; as well as his two children—Edward, two years, and Catherine, six months. The house has been placed in quarantine. Mr. Langley was employed as a carter for a timber-yard on Wentworth Wharf, and as in the course of following his employment he had to pass through Druitt and Sussex street it is supposed that he caught the infection from some of the houses at present under quarantine in that neighbourhood. Mr. Langley first became indisposed on Tuesday last, and on Thursday and Friday he was attended by a lodge doctor who at first said he was suffering from a severe cold, but afterwards expressed his conviction that Langley was suffering from a severe attack of chicken-pox. The doctor in question has since admitted that he knew that Langley was suffering from smallpox, but stated that he would not report the fact, as he was afraid that the patient would be forced to go to the quarantine ground. It is gratifying to find, however, that it is no longer necessary for a man to obtain a revolver in order to protect himself from being forced on the Faraway. It is now optional for any patient to go to the quarantine station; if he remain in his own house a private practitioner will be allowed to visit him without incurring the risk of being placed in quarantine. In the event of the patient not employing a medical man, he will be visited daily and treated by one of the Government medical officers.

A domestic servant named Annie Westwood, who has for the past three weeks been lodging at Mrs. Burford's boarding-house, in Sussex-street, has also been reported to be suffering from a mild attack of smallpox. She has not been confined to her bed, but is indisposed, and bears some spots upon her forehead. She was seen by Dr. Baly, Government medical officer, and he has pronounced her to be suffering from smallpox of a mild type. This makes the fourth case which has arisen in Mrs. Burford's house, inclusive of that of the man Fitzpatrick, who was sent to the quarantine ground.

Dr. Baly visited the house of Mrs. Wailes, in Queen-street, Woollahra, yesterday, and found that her daughter, Miss Wailes, sister to the young lady who recently died from smallpox, was suffering from an attack of the same disease, which had only reached an early stage. Miss Wailes is being treated by a private practitioner; she will, however, be visited daily by one of the Government medical officers. A considerable amount of curiosity has been manifested as to how it happened that the deceased young lady was attacked with smallpox. The house in which she resided was exceedingly healthy. There is reason for supposing that she visited the house of a neighbour in which there had been a case which was not reported to the authorities, and that she contracted the disease in that way.

Last evening Dr. Caffyn visited a tenement in Arthur-place, off Kent-street, and near Sussex-street, occupied by a labourer named Reuben Evans. A child named Maria Frances Evans, aged six years, was found to be afflicted with smallpox. The other occupants of the house are Mrs. Evans and an infant.

On inquiry last evening we learned that all the patients who are under the care of the Government medical officers are progressing favourably. The two children named Walter and Herbert Spooner, aged respectively 10 months and 2 years, are nearly convalescent. The other members of this family were vaccinated by Dr. Hill on Tuesday last, and he entered the house for the purpose of performing the operation.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your issue of to-day appears a letter advocating the use of sulphur fumes "as a powerful disinfectant." Sulphur fume is, no doubt, a powerful antiseptic—that is, a preservative. To preserve is not, however, the province of the sanitary chemist; he seeks to destroy and render inert contagia. The chemical elements known as the halogens (chlorine, iodine, bromine) are the only substances considered by experts (vide passim) as capable of destroying the smallpox germ.

Burning sulphur for the production of sulphurous acid fumes is not only undesirable but actually dangerous, if used in a living or sick room, and more especially so if used by others than experts.

Authorities such as Parkes, Blyth, Dr. A. Smith, &c., &c., agree that unless used cautiously in large quantities it is almost useless, while it involves great discomfort and danger to those who inhale it, since even four parts in 10,000 are irrespirable. Besides, there is always a chance of its causing the evolution of sulphuretted hydrogen, a most poisonous gas.

OUR BRISBANE LETTER.

BRISBANE, Sept. 9.

The Treasurer's financial statement was a summing up of the financial position of the colony, which must have been as pleasant a task for him to make as it was satisfactory for the representatives to hear. The revenue received from all the principal sources of public income exceeded last year the estimated yield from them. Auction sales of land also exceeded the amount anticipated from them, and there was accordingly a small surplus of £27,000 carried forward to the present year. As the "unexpended votes" at the end of the year 1879-80 amounted to £208,526, while on the 1st July, 1881, the total was only £176,379, the actual improvement in the position is better even than indicated by the surplus. And the improvement is continuing. Two months, July and August, of the present financial year have expired, and the receipts from Customs have exceeded by some £697 those of the same months in the preceding year. Now last year, at the same time, there were unusually heavy Customs payments owing to the general anticipation that new duties would be imposed, so that the normal income was then greatly exceeded. The fact that without any such estimates the receipts this year are greater even than the abnormal payments of last, are justly taken by the Treasurer as a proof that his estimate will be realized. And his estimated public income includes a reduced amount for auction sales of land. The present Government have been selling freely, the amount realized last year being £195,000. This method of raising revenue is regarded with great jealousy by the people in Queensland, and Mr. M'Ilwraith made an ingenious but not very successful attempt to show that his Government had only followed the example of their predecessors. By lumping the sales in a series of years, and dividing the total sums received by the number of years, he obtained a quotient which made it appear as if the Douglas Ministry had sold land as freely as his own Government. But to do this he included the large sums realized by his predecessor for sales in the railway reserves, land sold to defray the cost of construction of particular railways, which is, course, quite a different thing from selling to supplement current revenue. He was more successful in defending himself by comparison with New South Wales. Thus he showed that the land sales during the last seven years and a-half had furnished an average of 20 as against our average of 5 per cent. of the revenue, while Queensland has a public estate more than twice as large.

The portion of the financial statement which will attract the most attention will be the loan estimate, providing for £1,089,000. Of this £218,000 is for depreciation of debentures in the loan of 1879, and £252,000 to retire Treasury Bills. This is the completion of the transaction by which last year's deficit was covered from loan account. The money had been raised by land sales held to defray railway construction, and spent in that manner. But there was a deficit last year, and as the party in power had when in opposition always protested against the principle of selling land to make railways, they assumed that they were justified in making a transfer from loan, equal to the amount spent, to revenue. This was covered by Treasury bills which were never issued, and these bills are now covered in turn by the item in the loan estimate. The remainder of the estimate, £619,000, is devoted to the completion of the works already authorized by Parliament, and the construction of some fresh works of no great importance. It is not believed that the money will be borrowed in the near future. The Treasurer stated that he had floated the balance of the £3,000,000 loan authorized when he took office, last July, not because he was in need of the money, but because the condition of the market was unusually favourable. Without the million so obtained, he had supplies of loan money for six or eight months. It is therefore presumed that he will not attempt to float the loan for which he is asking the sanction of Parliament for some time to come, and the Courier, which is popularly supposed to be in the confidence of the Government, suggests that it may be delayed to form part of a big loan in the future.

There were a number of statistical tables circulated with the statement, which set forth the industrial and commercial position of the country. They disclose for the most part a very satisfactory state of affairs. In one particular the progress is almost too satisfactory. Deposits in the Government Savings Bank amount now to £778,000, and the Treasurer is compelled by law to pay 5 per cent. on all sums not exceeding £200, while he cannot get anything like the interest for the money. The total shows, however the flourishing condition of the workpeople in the colony, who constitute the bulk of the depositors. With a white population of hardly over 200,000 souls, we are treading closely on the heels of Victoria in the amount of savings of our workpeople. The tables, which are only made up to the end of 1880, show a slight falling off in the output of gold, but the yield this year has been so very good that we know that the loss will be more than made up during the current twelve months. Another satisfactory feature in these records of the progress of the colony is the change in the sheep statistics. From 1868 to 1878 the returns showed a continued decrease in the totals of sheep stock, but since then a rapid improvement has taken place. A gain of a million head is recorded in 1880, and we know that the increase is continuous, while there is no corresponding decrease in the cattle stock.

A rather important motion was carried in the Assembly to-day by Mr. Kates, one of the members for Darling Downs. This, the chief agricultural district of the colony, has been the scene of the largest and most successful land dummying. A good deal of agricultural land is therefore locked up in large estates, and devoted entirely to stock. Mr. Kates brought forward a resolution for devoting £500,000 to the repurchase of Darling Downs Estates, in order to throw them open to selection, and it was carried by a majority in a thin House. The motion will, I think, go no further. Most people share the desire to see this fine country in the hands of farmers; but they are not agreed that purchasing it will be the best means of effecting that purpose. At present the owners are rather anxious to sell. Sheep-grazing on natural grasses is not a profitable way of using the land bought at comparatively high rates, and our new system of local government exposes the owners of large estates to a heavy rate charge. If they are left alone, natural causes will lead to the large holdings being cut up into smaller parcels, and dummyism will receive a great blow. But if it once becomes understood that the Government will become the purchaser of these large estates, the temptation to acquire them in advance of settlement will become irresistible, and a deplorable impetus will be given to dummying.

The case of Miles v. M'Ilwraith is ended, so far as the colony is concerned. Plaintiff appealed to the Full Court to set the judgment aside on the findings of the jury, but after consideration the Court refused the rule nisi. The matter will now, I understand, be carried before the Privy Council. I do not profess to form an opinion on the legal aspects of the case, but politically it is most unfortunate that the leaders of the Opposition should be prosecuting the Premier on a charge which touches his position in the Assembly.

The recent showers have produced a most beneficial effect on the country. The Darling Downs farmers are beginning to hope that they may get a late crop of wheat after all. The season is unusually cool, which is in their favour. The sugar industry continues to progress. A project is on foot for starting a rival refinery at Yengarie, in the Maryborough district. A legal quarrel is apparently brewing over the matter. The National Bank, which holds the Yengarie patent, is advertising that the patent recently granted to the man who is the moving spirit of the new undertaking is an infringement of their rights. However, a company composed of local men, fortified by a legal opinion, is being organized in the teeth of the warning. The point of general interest in connection with the affair is that Maryborough men see an opening for the establishment of a second refinery in a district where the huge establishment of Yengarie is already in operation.

We are rather well off for public amusements just now. Wybert Reeve's company are playing "Diplomacy" at the theatre to rather indifferent audiences. Brisbane theatre-goers have yet to be educated up to the appreciation of a good play. They have been so long condemned to dramatic rubbish that their appreciation of histrionic merit has been atrophied. Professor Pepper is exhibiting his ghosts in an extemporized hall in Queen-street, and a badly-managed diorama is occupying the Town Hall.

I forgot to mention that a new Licensed Victuallers Bill is now before the Assembly, which codifies and alters the existing laws on the subject. It is very stringent in its provisions, too stringent, I fancy, for the taste of the House, and likely to meet with a good deal of detail opposition in committee. One feature of it is the imposition of penalties on the purchasers of liquors from unlicensed persons. At present grocers and lodging-house-keepers habitually retail liquor in defiance of the law, and as they take care not to sell to any but persons not likely to inform, they do so with impunity. It is possible that the Assembly may object to these proposed penalties, and legalize the existing state of affairs by authorizing the issue of bottle licenses.

COMMUNICATION IN RAILWAY TRAINS.

The following report, dated Wyvenhoe, 15th May, 1877, made by Captain W. H. Tyler, to the Secretary, Railway department, Board of Trade, on the subject of establishing communication between guards and passengers in railway trains, is of particular interest at the present moment:—

"In compliance with your instructions, I have now the honour to report, for the information of the Board of Trade, the result of my inspections and tests of the system of electrical communications between passengers and guards applied to certain trains of the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway Company.

"This system of electrical train communication has been arranged by Messrs. Stroudley and Rusbridge. A Leclanché battery, containing a few cells in a convenient form, is placed beneath the alarm bell in a wooden case fitted to the van by brackets, and this case is attached and removed at pleasure in the same manner as an ordinary signal-lamp. The mouth of each battery cell is sealed or closed, so that the contents cannot overflow. A battery of this description will work for several months without attention, and will indicate any decline in its strength by a gradual diminution in the sounds of the alarm bells. Its strength can also be tested at any time by means of a galvanometer, and when the minimum strength is reached there need be no risk of the batteries being too weak to perform the necessary duty.

"Communication is effected by means of a wire passed under the floors of the carriages, brought up the partitions between the compartments, attached to two fixed brass brackets, one for each compartment, and thus connected with the key or knob mechanism by the pulling of which the passengers ring the bells in the vans. This knob, by remaining out, indicates the compartment from which a signal has been given; the passengers cannot replace it after once pulling it out; and the bells continue to ring until the guard has replaced it by means of a special key. The connection between the two carriages is made by means of two elastic india-rubber-covered coils of wire, having hoop-couplings at the ends, which couplings are made with knife edges, so that the vibration of the moving train keeps the contact-surfaces bright and clean. These couplings are attached to the fixed brackets on the carriages, which are soldered to the wires before mentioned, and are placed about 18 inches above the main couplings, and in the centre of the carriages, where, when not in use, they can be attached to other hooks in vertical positions. In case any extra carriage has to be attached to a train, it is only necessary, after the main couplings have been screwed up and the side chains attached in the usual manner, for the porter or guard to hook the ends of the elastic couplings together. The connection is then complete and ready for use.

"When it is necessary to detach part of a train in motion, the elastic coupling before mentioned is provided with a slip-claw in lieu of the ordinary hook. The guard can then, by pulling a small cord which passes through the electrical coupling into the van, detach the electrical coupling before pulling the trigger-cord of the traction coupling.

"The whole of the details of this system have been carefully worked out, and constructed in the simplest form, so that the fixed parts may, as far as possible, be portions of the carriage, and the working parts may be easily detached. The whole of the parts are interchangeable, and any of them can be replaced, if damaged, in two or three minutes.

"To complete the electrical circuits through the wheels and rails, and for the passage of the return currents when a train becomes divided, the wood wheels of the carriages have metallic connections between the tires and bosses.

"A knob is placed in each of the bell-cases in the vans, so that the guards can communicate with each other by code, and a slipcatch is provided which will cause the bell to ring continuously when any danger is apprehended.

"It had, I found, been considered better in designing this communication to restrict this connection to the guards and passengers, and to leave the guards to judge as to the advisability of stopping the train. To enable the front guard to communicate with the engine-driver, a small bell was fixed within the cab on the engine close to the engine-driver, to be rung by means of a cord leading through a hole in the front van. The guard could thus at once attract the attention of the engine-driver when necessary.

"When there is only one guard at the tail of a train the same apparatus as is provided for each van requires to be fixed on the engine. It appears to me to be better in all cases that the engines should carry alarm bells as well as the vans, and that when a warning signal is made in any part of a train, it should thus be at once communicated to the engine-driver and to each guard.

"This system has been in use on the Brighton Railway in one of their express trains for nearly four years, and it has not been found necessary to alter any of the details, or to change it in any way. 208 vehicles are already fitted with the apparatus, and seven trains are at present working with this mode of communication.

"Having regard to the foregoing satisfactory trials, I am of opinion that the Board of Trade may properly sanction the adoption of this electrical system in the trains of the London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway Company in lieu of the present cord communication."

THE LEGAL PROFESSIONS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As an old colonist, I feel that I am entitled to express an opinion upon the Legal Practitioners Bill, which provides, in effect, that solicitors shall enjoy all the privileges of barristers in addition to those which they now possess, but that barristers shall not participate in any of the advantages which the bill proposes to confer, unless they are willing to be disbarred and become solicitors. In this way it is hoped to effect gradually an amalgamation of the profession. Now, Sir, my experience extends over half a century. I remember the time when the profession was amalgamated, I cannot forget the fraud and speculative actions which were nursed by amalgamation, and my deliberate conviction is that this measure will not be a public benefit. The measure is no doubt popular with the laity, and especially with the unthinking portion thereof, inasmuch as they imagine (poor dupes!) that this bill will decrease litigation. It must be clear to every thoughtful mind that it cannot do so by one fraction. The public are asked to believe that if this bill passes, only one lawyer will be required where two are engaged now, and that therefore the costs of one lawyer will be saved. Now, everyone who knows how distinct are the positions of advocate and solicitor, will see that in the vast majority of cases tried this will be impossible. Whether this bill, or a complete amalgamation bill, passes or not, the position of the advocate must always be distinct from that of the solicitor. They require different training, they cultivate different habits of thought, and each branch of the profession (to a certain extent) unfits a man for the other. There is not a solicitor who is worth his salt whom it would pay to take a case and advocate it in the Supreme Court. There is not a barrister who is fit to hold a brief who would peril his reputation by attending to the petty details in getting up a case. In the majority of Supreme Court cases there must be two men, the solicitor and the advocate. There is work which one man cannot do unaided, and for those two men litigants will have to pay. Will the bill remedy this? Certainly not. The client will have to pay his solicitor and his advocate. Or, suppose the case to be a paltry one, which a solicitor might safely take into Court himself, will he do that share of the work which now falls to the barrister for nothing? My experience tells me that he will not charge one penny less than the client now pays for his counsel. If, however, this bill will not lessen legal expenses, it will—and for this I expect its promoters will not be sorry—increase the amount of litigation. I feel I am touching on tender ground, but I must express my convictions in the most forcible language that I can command. I am not beyond the mark when I say that as many actions are prevented by counsel's opinion as are tried in court. Now, thanks to our having a Bar where professional success depends upon accuracy of judgment, a client can depend upon getting an independent dispassionate view of his probability of success, and there is nothing that solicitors look forward to with more intense anxiety than counsel's opinion. Their chance of a good fat bill of costs depends upon that. Now, take away our Bar, as this bill must eventually do, and what protection will the poor pigeon have against the ignorance or possible cupidity of his solicitor? I leave your readers who have been plucked in the inferior courts to judge. I do not mean to deny that there are evils connected with the administration of justice which render it costly and tedious; much might be done towards remedying these evils. For instance, by allowing only one counsel's fee on the taxation of costs, unless the Judge certifies that two were necessary; by having three courts sitting at Nisi Prius when Mr. Justice Fawcett returns; by making new trials and appeals much more difficult to obtain than they are at present. But this bill, so far from remedying those evils under which the public groan, will only increase them. It is a lawyer's bill, conceived by a lawyer, mainly advocated by lawyers, and will only serve the ends of lawyers. If the public think that lawyers are endeavouring to pass a bill in their interest to decrease the cost of litigation, and thereby to diminish their own profits, they are more credulous than I take them to be.

A VICTIM.

P.S.—As a matter of fact, when the profession was amalgamated in this colony, in nearly all cases at Nisi Prius two attorneys were employed on each side.

LAW REPORT.

SUPREME COURT.—Monday, September 12.

Banco Court.—(Before their Honors the Chief Justice, Sir William Manning, and Mr. Justice Windeyer.)

WAKEFORD V. THE COMMISSIONER FOR RAILWAYS.

The case was tried before his Honor the Chief Justice, when the jury found a verdict for the plaintiff, with damages £360.

Mr. Salomons, Q.C., and Mr. C. B. Stephen, instructed by the Crown Solicitor, moved to reduce the damages to a nominal amount. Mr. Darley, Q.C., and Mr. Manning, instructed by Messrs. Gannon and M'Laughlin, appeared in support of the verdict.

The plaintiff had tendered, on a specification published by the Government, to bore for water on the railway extensions to Albury and Narrandera. The specification so far as material to the action was in the following terms:—"Specification for making trial borings for obtaining water on the extension Wagga to Albury, and on the extension Junee to Narrandera. There will be not less than four trial borings to be made, viz., at Hanging Rock and Gerogery, or Billabong, on the extension Wagga to Albury, and at Junee and Boggy Creek, on the extension Junee to Narrandera. . . . And the contractor is to continue the work, if required, until a satisfactory water supply is obtained in two places on each extension. . . . It is not intended to carry out boring to a depth exceeding two hundred feet; it it should be considered advisable to exceed that depth a fresh schedule of prices will be arranged with the contractor." The contract then stipulated that the contractor should supply a proper plant for carrying on the work. The plaintiff's tender was accepted, and in pursuance of his contract he brought his plant to the Wagga and Albury extension and sank two shafts for water, and some shafts on the Billabong, not for water, but to ascertain for the Government the nature of the underlying strata. After this work had been completed the plaintiff demanded to be allowed to complete his contract by sinking two shafts on the Junee and Narrandera line. This the Government refused to allow him to do, as they had themselves sunk two shafts on that line to a depth of 100 feet, and had failed to obtain water. The plaintiff did not remove his plant to the Junee and Narrandera line, but brought this action against the Commissioner for Railways, as nominal defendant, for breach of contract. He had been paid for the work which he had executed. The jury found specially that the plaintiff did not accept the borings at the Billabong in lieu of the two shafts which he had contracted to sink on the Narrandera line; and they assessed the damages at £360, upon the assumption that it was reasonable that the plaintiff should be allowed to go down 100 feet in each of the two borings on the Narrandera extension.

Mr. Salomons said that the Government had not contracted to allow the plaintiff to go to any specified depth. If they had stopped him after he had sunk six inches, and then paid him for the work done, he could recover no more than nominal damages.

Mr. Darley said that Mr. Salomons' argument went to show that the Government was bound by no contract with the plaintiff; and that, if the contractor provided plant and the Government refused to allow him to commence the work, he could recover no more than nominal damages. The right reading of the specification was that the plaintiff was to be allowed to sink 200 feet. But if that was not the true construction, at any rate the plaintiff was entitled to go down a reasonable depth, which was for the jury to determine. A meaning must be given to the term "trial" borings, and the Government itself had put an interpretation on it by boring 100 feet at Boggy Creek.

The Court said that the plaintiff was not entitled to require the Commissioner to allow him to proceed to any given depth. The plaintiff was bound to bore in certain places mentioned, and to go to a certain depth, and for the prices mentioned in the schedule, but the Commissioner was not obliged to allow him to go to a particular depth. There was nothing in the contract which said that he was to be allowed to go 200 feet unless water was reached. It was said that by the contract he was to be allowed to go a reasonable depth; but who was to judge how far he could go? Was a jury? But if so, how could they possibly find out what was a reasonable depth? The contract was unilateral, but there are many cases of such contracts in the books. There had in this case been a contract and a breach by the defendant, and the plaintiff ought to have the verdict, but the damages can only be nominal.

Rule absolute, with costs; the plaintiff to have the costs of the trial below.

M'CREA V. ROPER.

This was a motion for a new trial.

Mr. Darley, Q.C., and Mr. G. B. Simpson, instructed by Mr. M. A. H. Fitzhardinge, moved for the plaintiff; Mr. Salomons, Q.C., and Mr. Pilcher in support of the verdict.

This case turned upon the sufficiency of description in an application for a conditional purchase. The nature of the action, the facts, and the arguments are sufficiently set forth in the judgment.

The Court said that this was an action of ejectment brought by an infant plaintiff to recover possession of a certain conditional purchase. The infant had, early in 1875, before the Lands Act Amendment Act, by his agent free-selected this land, paid the deposit money, and himself fulfilled the conditions as to occupation. In 1877 the plaintiff's father, who bore the same name, professing to own the selection, mortgaged it to the defendant, who went into possession. Afterwards, the plaintiff brought an action of ejectment against the defendant. At the trial, which took place at Wagga Wagga in April last, before the Chief Justice, the plaintiff, in order to prove his title, put in evidence his application to conditionally purchase the land, which was in the following terms:—"County of Clarendon, parish of Junee, 320 acres, north of Mr. Hammond's selection from the springs." The Chief Justice, considering himself bound by the previous decisions of the Supreme Court, especially Flood v. Longford (Knox, 449), admitted the application, and the plaintiff recovered in the action. The description in the application ought to be in intelligible terms, though it was not necessary to describe the land formally, as a surveyor would. It must be certain, or capable of being made certain. A description which would fit on to any number of pieces of land would not be sufficient. There were an infinity of pieces of land which would fit on this description, and there was nothing to show that the piece which the plaintiff occupied was the piece meant by the description in his application.

Rule absolute for a new trial.

LENANE V. BANK OF NEW SOUTH WALES.

The arguments in this case had not concluded when the Court rose.

STUART V. BARAYENE.

The following is the judgment of the Chief Justice in this case:—This is an action of trespass brought by the plaintiff against the defendant, Barayene, who represents Thomas Broughton, and his right to hold the verdict will depend upon the proof of Broughton's title. The parties respectively claim the property in question herein by the various deeds before the Court. The plaintiff commenced his evidence of title by putting in a conveyance bearing date the 14th day of June, 1851, from William Bligh Gore to John Boyle. Broughton's title started from the same person by a deed in favour of George Green of an earlier date—that is to say, the 9th day of March, 1846. Broughton also claimed title through a conveyance from Wm. Gore, the original grantee, to one Pendray, dated the 21st day of August, 1840. This conveyance and the subsequent deeds under it, may be thrown out of consideration altogether as not affecting the case. It was thought at first that this chain of title was material to the issue, but on fuller examination it turns out to be clearly otherwise, as William Gore had no interest in the land when he conveyed to Pendray. If Broughton can claim at all it must be under the conveyance from W. B. Gore to Green—a mortgage to secure payment of £50—and the deeds following upon it. We must assume that his documentary title is under this deed exclusively. The verdict being for the defendant, the rule nisi for a new trial was granted solely on the ground of surprise. During the present argument the whole of the deeds have been examined much more carefully and minutely than would have been possible at the trial, and in the course of the investigation it became apparent that this deed from William Bligh Gore to George Green was no more than what I have already stated, namely, a mortgage to secure the payment of £50, with the ordinary power of sale after default, and covenant for quiet enjoyment until such default. There were also the usual clauses relieving the purchaser under such power of sale from any necessity to inquire into the default, or the legality of the sale; all the clauses in fact which are found in ordinary mortgages in fee. That being so, the only title which Broughton made out was under this mortgage, and there was no evidence of any default by the mortgagor, from which it follows that such mortgagor, and all persons claiming under him are entitled to retain possession as against the mortgagee, and all persons claiming under him. The plaintiff's title then to such possession until default is so far clear. No doubt there is the power of sale, and Broughton has a conveyance in general terms from the person to whom the mortgage was transferred, that is from Shuttleworth who derived title through Want. He has a general conveyance which contains words apparently large enough to embrace this Artarmon property, and under that designation the one-fifth interest of William B. Gore might be included. But the question then arises, is this conveyance which is in general terms, and does not profess to be under the power of sale sufficient evidence to dispense with the proof of default? I think that it is not. A conveyance under a power of sale in a mortgage should recite the existence of such power, the default and the sale as consequent thereon. Looking at the terms of this mortgage to Green, it appears to me that the necessity for inquiring into the default is dispensed with only where a receipt is given avowedly under the power of sale, and it follows, therefore, that Broughton does not stand in the position of a person who has purchased under such a power. So far as the deeds now before us are concerned, the representatives of William Bligh Gore, that is to say, those who are the transferees of his equity of redemption, are entitled to the possession, and that being so, the verdict is one that ought not to be allowed to stand. It is said, however, that this is not a case of surprise. Well, the cases of surprise seem sometimes to be rather vague. There are not very many of them reported. In one case, counsel, in the progress of the trial, said that a witness about to be called could prove only a particular fact, whereupon his adversary consented to a verdict. But it afterwards turned out that this witness could prove a great deal more, and on this being made manifest, the Court treated it as a case of surprise, and granted a new trial. Another instance was in an action for ejectment. A judgment was put in evidence as having effect in a particular way, and a verdict was given for the plaintiff on that assumption; but afterwards it was ascertained that the effect of this judgment was different from what was represented, and the Court granted a new trial. Each case of surprise will depend upon its own circumstances. It is contended that the discovery since the trial of the effect of this mortgage deed is not a ground for setting aside the verdict, but when there are, as in this case, a number of deeds in evidence, in the hurried way in which trials are necessarily conducted, it is not easy to see clearly their effect while the trial is progressing, unless they have been subjected to a careful and minute examination before the parties come into Court. It may easily happen that counsel, seeing the documents for the first time in the Court, cannot at the moment grasp their full meaning or effect. The Judge may equally with counsel fail to see important points to which his attention has not been called until the trial is over. In the present case we now see only at the close of the argument what the deed to Green really is, and we ought not, under these circumstances, to allow the verdict to stand. Had our attention been called on the motion for the rule nisi to the true legal effect of this deed, the plaintiff would certainly have been allowed (as he asked in his memorandum) to insert in such rule nisi, the ground that the verdict was against evidence. Inasmuch, however, as the refusal on that occasion to allow that ground to be so inserted arose from an oversight as to the evidence actually given, that is to say, from neither the Court nor counsel noticing the effect of Green's mortgage, it would be unjust now to deprive the plaintiff of his right to insist, by reason of it, on his right to a new trial, even though the case might not be regarded as one strictly of surprise. There should be a new trial, the costs of the first trial to abide the event.

Ex-Senator Conkling on the American Situation.—In the New York Senate, on July 5, ex-Senator Conkling, when asked his opinion of the situation and the way some newspapers are disposed to treat it, said: "The assault upon President Garfield is an astounding assault upon the nation. The shot fired by a madman is a shot fired at all of us. No language can ever state the enormity of the deed. There is, however, no occasion for public apprehension or excitement. Our father foresaw even such dire possibilities, and provided for them. The constitution points out just what shall be done. In such an emergency the Vice-President instantly succeeds, and the Government goes on as if no change had occurred. In this case the Vice-President is an upright, brave, and able man, abundantly qualified for the great trust which Providence may have in store for him. In his hands no harm will come to the public interests. He is thoroughly patriotic. To strive to array hostility or distrust against him at such an hour is unspeakably wicked and treasonable. No patriot, whatever his politics, can do anything now till the shadow passes by but bear up the hands of the Vice-President. This the constitution and the law-abiding people of the country will all unite in doing. He will have the prayers of all good men and women. Assassination, whether by pistol or newspapers, will be stamped out by the American people with a righteous and indignant accord. There being no President pro tem. of the Senate and no Speaker of the House, the Vice-President is the one safeguard and reliance of the country against uncertainty and chaos, and lost indeed to wisdom and virtue must be the American who would increase the danger or perturbation at such a time. Sad and deplorable as the crime is, it is the glory and safety of our free institutions that no madman's act can reach beyond the individual at whom he aims. The Government belongs to the people, and will go on peacefully even in a trial like this, when grief and and horror must pervade all hearts. Meanwhile, as when death strikes the head of a family, the survivors must manfully proceed, so when the head of the Government falls composure and duty still remain to the nation and to all its citizens. Mourning, as we all do, each man has his part of fortitude and firmness, and the same sense and wisdom which have led this people through greater perils will not be wanting now. Instead of bitterness and treasonable calumny, this is the time for the American people to cultivate peace and good-will, and strengthen and brighten the links which bind them together. Civilization will not halt or stumble because Providence has demented one poor creature, nor because ferocious and atrocious falsehood has for a time attempted to bewilder the public sense."

POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

The Police Magistrate was assisted yesterday on the Criminal side of the court by Messrs. Hunt, Hezlet, and Armstrong; and on the Summons side by Messrs. Alexander, Frazer, Bull, and Nelson.

Walter Harrington was found guilty of having, while in custody on a charge of drunkenness, assaulted, by kicking, Constable Vane, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 40s. or to be imprisoned seven days.

Mary Devereux and Mary Ann Wilson, idle and disorderly persons, found behaving in a riotous manner, throwing stones, and using indecent language in the vicinity of a place of worship while the people were coming out, severally pleaded guilty, and were sentenced to three months' imprisonment with hard labour.

Kate Freeman was called upon to satisfy the Bench in respect of a pair of boots found in her possession, and suspected of being stolen property, and, failing, was sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

Richard Kingsley and —Thompson, apprehended on a warrant, in which they were charged with having arranged for a prize fight, pleaded guilty, and were ordered to enter into recognizances, each with two sureties in £5, to keep the peace three months, or in default of sureties to be imprisoned seven days.

On the Summons side, Thomas Davies appeared on summons to answer an information by George T. Evans, superintendent of railways, in which he was charged with having in his possession two ropes, of the value of 4s., the property of the Commissioner of Railways, and reasonably suspected of having been stolen. John Marshall, night watchman at the goods sheds, deposed to finding in defendant's dray the ropes in question, which by marks thereon he identified as the property of the Commissioner; defendant told him they had been given to him. Defendant was adjudged to be guilty, and was sentenced to pay a penalty of 10s., with 10s. 6d. for complainant's costs and 4s. 10d. Court costs. In Evans v. Alfred Buck, Evans v. Robert M'Fale, Evans v. Thomas Hall, and Evans v. Edward Maloney, like informations, the defendants pleaded guilty, and received like sentence; and in Evans v. James Norris, a like complaint, the defendant pleaded guilty, and was ordered to pay 5s. penalty and 4s. 10d. Court costs. These cases were conducted by Mr. Gannon, Mr. Carroll appearing on the other side.

WATER POLICE COURT.

The Bench in the Charge court was occupied yesterday by Messrs. Marsh, W.P.M., Goodridge, Field, and Byrnes; and that in the Summons court by Messrs. Lester and Gray.

Ellen Stanfield, 33, was fined 60s. for indecency in Crown-street; the alternative was 14 days in gaol.

John Charles Street was charged by warrant with having assaulted and beaten one Jacob R. Clark. The evidence of prosecutor was that on the 8th of September last he was standing in his shop, 73, Pitt-street, when prisoner, without witness having spoken to him or given him any provocation whatever, threw a stone at him, which struck his hat and knocked it off; prisoner had previously served three years in gaol for assaulting and wounding witness, and six months for threatening his cousin; he was a dangerous man, and witness would not give much for his life if he were allowed to be at large; he had frequently threatened to take witness's life; witness did not want him punished, but only bound over to keep the peace. Prisoner, whose demeanour was such as to excite doubts as to his sanity, was bound over to keep the peace for six months; himself in £50, and two sureties of £25 each; in default, three months in gaol. Mr. Marsh directed that the police doctor's attention should be called to the prisoner, with a view to ascertaining whether he was or was not sane.

John Ryan, 17, James Brown, 16, William M'Carthy, 16, Albert Childs, 16, Annie Effie, 18, and Elizabeth Hancock, 16, were charged with riotous conduct on the Randwick-road. From the evidence of the apprehending constable, it appeared that the defendants had been disorderly on Sunday afternoon, shouting and using obscene language, besides addressing passers-by in an offensive way. M'Carthy, who was described as the ringleader, was fined 40s., in default, seven days, and the others 20s. each, or seven days. Mr. Marsh warned defendants that if they came before the Court again for a like offence, and it was proved against them, they would be sent to gaol without the option of a fine. He also said that a law was being passed under which the Bench would have power to flog youths such as they were.

NEWTOWN POLICE COURT.

Mr. S. H. Terry, J.P., occupied the bench yesterday. Alexander O'Neil and Mary A. Byrne, for riotous behaviour on the Parramatta-road, Petersham, were each fined 40s., or seven days in gaol.

CORONER'S INQUEST.

The City Coroner (Mr. H. Shiell, J.P.) held an inquest at the Star Hotel, George-street, Redfern, yesterday morning, with reference to the death of Mrs. Mary Louisa Bignell, wife of William Bignell, a tailor, residing at No. 28, George-street, Redfern. William Bignell, who was arrested on Saturday, on a charge of drunkenness, and who was suffering very much, as if from the effects of drink, was examined; his wife was 35 years of age, a native of Sydney, and he had been married to her 13 years; she died at a quarter past 11 o'clock on Friday morning. Dr. G. F. Dansey, of Cleveland-street, Redfern, deposed that Bignell called on him on Sunday, 4th instant, and said that his wife was very ill, and was dying; witness went to No. 28, George-street, Redfern, where he found Mrs. Bignell ill in bed; she was holding a teacup which was full of brandy and water; the woman was in a very low state, and was evidently suffering from the effects of frequent drinking; advised the husband to immediately make some very strong beeftea, and then to make his wife drink as much as he could compel her to take; instructed Bignell before administering the beef tea to his wife to put some bread or something of the kind in it, and that on no account was he to give her any more spirits, for if he continued to do so he would kill her; cautioned him that if he neglected to carry out those instructions his wife would die, and also said that it was no use prescribing for her so long as he (Bignell) persisted in giving her spirits; last Saturday witness made a post mortem examination of the body of the deceased; the lungs were somewhat diseased; the heart was enlarged, fatty, and flabby; the liver, which was of a pale yellowish colour, was three times its normal size, extended from side to side, and displaced the stomach downwards; the stomach contained a little liquid, but no food; the bowels were empty; the membranes of the brain as well as the vessels connected with it were congested; the post mortem appearances showed that deceased was a woman who was addicted to the abuse of alcohol, and that the cause of death was exhaustion consequent on continued intemperance; if, after witness's visit on Sunday, 4th instant, the use of alcoholic stimulants had been discontinued and animal nourishment given to her instead, there would have been a chance of prolonging her life; witness was of opinion that the use of stimulants after he saw her on Sunday, contributed to and accelerated her death. Senior-constable George Anderson deposed to going to Bignell's house early on Friday afternoon; Mrs. Bignell was dead, and a woman whom he saw there said Bignell had gone away under the influence of drink; saw the husband at half-past 2 o'clock, and took him to the house, and told him to remain while he (witness) went for a doctor; witness returned at half-past 3 o'clock, and found that Bignell, who was under the influence of drink, had gone away again; he did not return until about 10 o'clock on Saturday morning, when he was still under the influence of drink; saw Bignell previous to his wife's death, cautioned him about the condition of the house, and told him that he would be responsible for anything that might occur in it; Bignell ordered witness out of the house, saying at the same time that he could do as he liked in his own house; on Friday last witness examined the house, and noticed an absence of all nourishment except a little coffee without any milk in a basin, and a very small quantity of brandy in a bottle; saw no meat or preserved meat for making beef-tea in the house; on Saturday night arrested Bignell for being drunk in George-street, Redfern. Charles Lovell, of 27, Alderson-street, deposed that he was a bailiff of the Small Debts Court; took possession of Bignell's house, under an execution, at 4 o'clock p.m., on Thursday, 7th instant, and remained there until 11 o'clock on Friday morning; Mrs. Bignell appeared to be ill, and witness saw her husband several times take in spirits and give it to his wife; once he gave her brandy mixed with an egg, but he never gave her any other nourishment; saw Mrs. Bignell take brandy three or four times; about a nobbler at a time; witness remonstrated with Bignell, who said, "Oh, a little drop wont hurt her;" she was evidently dying when witness left the house; he was glad to run away from it; Bignell was under the influence of drink all the time witness was there, and was not in a fit state to be at large; some beer was brought into the house and Bignell offered it to his wife; she declined to take it, but would have brandy. Mary Henry, residing at No. 30, George-street, Redfern, deposed that she knew deceased, who drank to excess; saw Bignell give her brandy several times between Monday and Friday; told him not to give her too much for fear it would kill her; he used to give her sixpennyworth at a time; had known him to give her seven or eight glasses during a day; between last Monday and Friday did not see Bignell give his wife any beef tea or arrowroot; during last week and the week before Mrs. Bignell appeared to have nothing but brandy; witness cooked a fowl for her on Monday, but did not know whether she ate it; some brandy and some beer were brought into the house on Friday shortly before Mrs. Bignell died; her husband was at home then. Catherine Lynch, of No. 48, Turner-street, Redfern, deposed that between the hours of 10 and 11 o'clock on Friday morning she obtained a quart of beer and sixpennyworth of brandy at the request of Bignell, and took them into his house; half of the brandy was mixed with an egg, and by Bignell's direction was given to his wife; the remainder of the brandy was given to Mrs. Bignell afterwards; Mr. Bignell went to the bank to change a cheque, and after he returned he went for some more brandy for his wife, who was then almost dead; did not see any nourishment given by Bignell to his wife; witness had that morning given some coffee to Mrs. Bignell, and gave her some sago the day before; on Wednesday witness gave deceased some beef tea; Bignell brought the beef with which witness made the beef tea; Friday was the only occasion on which witness procured brandy for the deceased; Wednesday was the only occasion on which witness made beef tea for Mrs. Bignell; the cheque which Bignell cashed on Friday was for £4 or £5, and was signed by his wife. The jury returned a verdict to the effect that Mrs. Bignell died from exhaustion resulting from intemperance; that William Bignell had persisted in supplying his wife with alcoholic stimulants contrary to the express orders of Dr. Dansey; that Bignell had failed to supply her with proper nourishment, and that he was guilty of manslaughter. William Bignell was accordingly committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter. Bail was refused.

TRAMWAY SEASON TICKETS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—Your sub-leader on the duplication of the tramway from Hyde Park to Moore Park, and other relational matters, became the subject of spirited conversation this morning among a party of gentlemen who are residents along the line in question. This conversation, like many that had gone before, drifted into a phase of the tram question that from its frequent recurrence, under different circumstances, and among different individuals, indicates a rooted hold on the thoughts and feelings of not a few people. I refer to the issue of season tickets, and the reasons hitherto advanced by the authorities for declining to consider the same with a view to its adoption. Many of those reasons are of little weight. There are others which, on being considered, discover their nakedness, or indeed become arguments against their holders. Take, for instance, the statement advanced when the question is asked why the railway should have accorded to it a privilege denied to the tramway. It is this: The railway is an entirely different thing, and cannot be considered as bearing the slightest resemblance, or being in any way a parallel case, to the tramway. That it is entirely different in one respect is readily admitted, for the railway pays about 4½ per cent. and the tramway 18½ per cent. But does this argue in favour of granting more concessions to the patrons of the former than the latter? If not, I should be glad to be informed in what other respect does a dissimilarity exist that tells against the tramway in regard to this question. But again, another reason urged by the authorities is, that there are insuperable departmental difficulties in the way, the details of which are known only to those who would have to initiate and elaborate the modus operandi of a season ticket system as applicable to the tramway. To this it may be replied, if departmental difficulties exist, the sooner they are removed the better; and if such difficulties are considered insuperable, it does not necessarily follow that they are so. Another inference may be not unfairly deduced, viz., the immobility of those who advance such an argument. Moreover, are departmental arrangements to be subordinated to the public convenience or demand, or is the public convenience or demand to be subordinated to departmental arrangements? The latter would seem to be the creed of the authorities at present. I say at present, for there can be little doubt that the gathering feeling on this question is assuming considerable proportions, and may soon break through all this tinder of obstacle.

Would it not then be wise and opportune, not to say graceful, on this auspicious completion of the duplicate line, for the Commissioner of Railways to make this concession to the regular passengers of the tramways voluntarily, and not to wait for the gathered strength of public opinion to force an unwilling hand?

I am, &c., A DAILY PASSENGER.

Being for sale just before shearing, the purchaser will get the immediate benefit of the clip and lambing.

Frontages to Parramatta River
Frontages to Onions Point-road
Frontages to Prince Edward Parade
Frontages to Prince George Parade
Frontages to Gladstone Avenue
Frontages to Nelson Parade.

CONVENIENT OF ACCESS by either Parramatta River or Lane Cove steamboats; within the 3-mile circle from General Post Office, nearer thereto than Stanmore, Randwick, or Waverley.
Commanding views, embracing the Parramatta River, the Gladesville Bridge, the Harbour right down to Vaucluse, Iron Cove, Balmain, Five Dock, Petersham, and the city; in fact, a panorama which, in any other place than Sydney, if depicted on canvas, would be held to be the production of the brain of the artist, and not a reality.
To adopt the old phrase—this property need only be seen to be appreciated. And then what natural advantages it possesses will, by the course adopted by the vendor, be enhanced, not marred, as has been too often hitherto, by the erection of unsightly buildings.
BUILDING RESTRICTIONS will be imposed, which, without being oppressive, or interfering with the architectural tastes of persons building, will guarantee a respectable neighbourhood.
The liberal manner in which the RECREATION RESERVES have been dedicated for the public benefit and laid out must command approval and, it is to be hoped, induce imitation.
It may be here mentioned that the same vendors have acquired the property immediately opposite and down to the waters of Lane Cove River, so that buyers on the Onions Point Road will have an equal guarantee against the depreciation of their property by the erection of inferior buildings in their neighbourhood.

For the convenience of advertisers, replies to advertisements may be sent to the Herald Office; but the proprietors do not accept any responsibility in this respect.
